Cuban Troops And Planes Smash Revolt

Many Killed During Battle In Port City

Dissident Naval, Maritime Police Turn On Batista

HAVANA, Sept. 5 (AP)—Government troops, tanks and warplanes fought a day-long battle in south-central Cuba today to smash a rebel uprising led by naval and maritime police forces who turned against President Batista.

The government forces claimed victory early tonight.

Battle observers reported many Cubans were killed but could not give figures immediately.

The fighting was at Cienfuegos, 150 miles southeast of Havana on the Cuban south shore.

It apparently brought together the dissident navy and maritime police forces of the naval base there and the westward-reaching forces of rebel leader Fidel Castro.

Rebel Force Of 400 Routed

The troops, army plane bombings and machine-gunning killed, wounded, routed or forced the surrender of about 400 men who seized police headquarters in the heart of Cienfuegos. For a time they had threatened to take over the biggest port city in south-central Cuba.

Rebel remnants fled to nearby hills after resisting intense fire of troops, planes and tanks throughout the afternoon.

Planes rushed to Cienfuegos from Havana plastered police headquarters with bombs and heavy machine gunfire for hours to dislodge scores of rebels. They holed up there after capturing the building just after dawn.

Bombs falling near the headquarters heavily damaged Cienfuegos' city hall.

The outbreak was led originally by a group of sailors from Cayo Loco base in Cienfuegos Bay. They joined forces with maritime police and rebel partisans of Fidel Castro.

Streets Become Shooting Gallery

The revolutionists swarmed through the streets shouting that the government of President Batista had fallen and that Castro's men had established their own military rule in Havana.

Intense firing turned the streets of Cienfuegos, a city of beautiful parks, into a shooting gallery. It suddenly ceased about 4:30 p.m.

An undetermined number of men at the Cayo Loco base were the first to surrender. Rebels in police headquarters gave up next.

Sailors from the naval base distributed arms to civilian sympathizers of Castro and undercover guerrillas.

The outbreak at Cienfuegos followed a score of bombings throughout Cuba on the heels of President Batista's declaration that all terrorism would be crushed.

Ike Finds Newport Golf Course Tough

NEWPORT, R. I., Sept. 5 (AP)—A brisk wind and dozens of deep sand traps gave President Eisenhower a tough time today in playing his first round of vacation golf at the Newport Country Club.

"Too many traps," the President moaned at the halfway point of an 18-hole round at the exclusive course on Narragansett Bay.

After the round, Eisenhower complained that he had played "very poorly" and he said with a grin regarding his score:

"Let's not talk about it in public."

This was the first full day of Eisenhower's New England vacation. He and Mrs. Eisenhower arrived from Washington yesterday for an extended stay at a temporary White House at the U. S. naval base on Coaster's Harbor Island, just west of Newport.

Faubus Accused Of Deliberately Provoking Test

NEW YORK, Sept. 5 (AP)—An official of the National Assn. for the Advancement of Colored People said today Arkansas Gov. Orval Faubus is "deliberately provoking a test of the authority of the federal government" by his use of National Guard troops to prevent integration in Little Rock.

In a telegram to President Eisenhower, Roy Wilkins, executive secretary of the NAACP, said, "Instead of federal troops being used in the South as pictured by the horror speech of Sen. Richard B. Russell of Georgia on July 2, state troops ... are defying the government of their country."

Wilkins called upon the President "to take forthright steps to preserve the authority of our national government in the Little Rock and any other similar situation."

Teamster Union Leaders Deny Racket Charges

WASHINGTON, Sept. 5 (AP)—James R. Hoffa and other Teamsters Union bosses today denied before the AFL-CIO Ethical Practices Committee any wrongdoing in connection with corruption charges leveled by the Senate Rackets Committee.

Most of the closed hearing before the AFL - CIO's five-man rackets-policing group was devoted to hearing Hoffa's written and oral explanation of the Senate committee's charges that he accepted favors from employers and consorted with racketeers.

Hoffa declined to make public his own statement, telling newsmen it was "confidential."

As for the AFL-CIO's charges that the Teamsters Union is corruptly dominated by Vice President Hoffa, national President Dave Beck and others, a public statement was issued on which none of the Teamsters would elaborate.

This statement denied the corruption-domination charge — one that could lead to ousting the Teamsters from the AFL-CIO if sustained.

The statement said any necessary remedial steps in the union or punishment of its officials would be carried out at the Sept. 30 convention of the 1½-million-member truckers' union in Miami, Fla.

Hoffa is the odds-on choice to become Teamsters president at the convention, succeeding Beck, who is retiring. Beck has been accused by the Senate committee, head by Sen. McClellan (D-Ark), of helping himself to union funds, while Hoffa has been charged with using racketeers to advance his own powers.

Salesman Links Two Ohioans To Murder

WHEELING, W. Va., Sept. 5 (AP)—An auto salesman walked into the police station today and said he knew where Nick Miller, Wheeling cafe owner, was murdered and who was involved.

Police Chief William J. Thomas said he is holding Albert Tavan and will investigate the story.

Tavan gave the names of two men from the Steubenville, Ohio, area as persons connected with the death of Miller, Thomas said.

Miller's body was found in a parked car in the Wilkinsburg district of Pittsburgh, on Aug. 22. Police said he had been dead for several days.

West, Russia Agree To End Disarm Talks

Question Of When To Resume Parleys Remains Unsettled

LONDON, Sept. 5 (AP)—The U.N. Disarmament subcommittee tonight agreed unanimously to recess its London talks without reaching an arms-reduction agreement.

The five-power subcommittee talked for an hour—and failed to agree—on the question of when to meet again to take up the disarmament problem. But it scheduled another meeting tomorrow to try to settle this question.

Today's meeting, the 70th since the present session opened in London March 18 and the 156th since the subcommittee was formed in 1954, wound up on a note of bitterness.

The Western Powers—the United States, Britain, Canada and France—suggested that the subcommittee meet again at the United Nations on Oct. 1.

Russia Wants Assembly Debate

Soviet delegate Valerian Zorin agreed to the proposal for an immediate recess. But he protested that no time or place for the next meeting should be fixed until after the entire question of disarmament has been fought out in the U.N. General Assembly.

When Western spokesmen objected that this might mean the loss of valuable time for negotiations, Zorin charged the West was seeking to avoid a debate on disarmament in the General Assembly.

Spokesmen for Britain and France sharply denied Zorin's accusation. The United States already has moved that the question of disarmament be discussed during the General Assembly session which begins Sept. 17.

West's Plan Rejected

Today's meeting marked formal abandonment of hope that agreement would result from the tortuous 5½ months of negotiations which earlier this year brought cautious predictions from both sides that a partial disarmament treaty might be worked out.

Russia gave up first. As soon as the West tabled in final form its 11-point disarmament package last week, Zorin attacked the proposals as containing nothing of genuine value.

Dio Sentenced To Prison, Fined

NEW YORK, Sept. 5 (AP)—Extortionist Johnny Dio, 43, linked to Teamsters bigwig James R. Hoffa in recent Senate rackets hearings, was sentenced to two years in prison today for shaking down two firms to keep labor peace.

Also sentenced to two years were Dio's codefendants, Max Chester, 41, a former local official of the Retail Clerks International Assn., and Samuel Goldstein, 41, a former Teamsters Local president.

General Sessions Judge James A. Mullen also fined each of the three $1,000. They were charged with conspiracy and bribery in obtaining $10,000 from two electroplating companies.

Wiretapped telephone talks between Dio and Hoffa on other matters were played at the televised hearings in Washington two weeks ago while Hoffa was in the witness chair.

The Senate committee suggested the talks dealt with phony Teamsters locals in New York and with microphones for eavesdropping in a 1953 grand jury probe of Hoffa.

Second Session Of Girard Trial Opens In Japan

MAEBASHI, Japan, Friday, Sept. 6 (AP)—Japanese prosecutors today lined up the evidence aimed to prove GI William S. Girard killed a Japanese woman scrap collector after luring her within gun range.

The trial of the Ottawa, Ill., soldier has been in recess since its opening Aug. 26.

Today's session was the first of three, the prelude to moving tomorrow to the hillside military firing range where a shot from Giard's grenade launcher killed 46-year-old Mrs. Naka Sakai last Jan. 30.

Girard was guarding a machine gun at the time. He has denied he fired wilfully at Japanese scrap collectors on the range.

The opening session was occupied with a long argument over the right of a Japanese court to try Girard. The U. S. Supreme Court handed the case over to the Japanese courts.

The government had four exhibits and 35 statements from Japanese farmers, policemen, crime laboratory technicians and soldiers in Girard's U.S. Army unit.

Defense attorney Itsuro Hayashi said he did not plan many challenges of the government's evidence at this time.

Sodium Lights Banned

NOTTINGHAM, England, Sept. 5 (AP)—This midlands city today banned the use of sodium street lights. The orange glow turns the reddest lips to brown and a peaches-and-cream complexion to yellow.

A city official explained: "The girls of this city have a right to be considered. They are proud of their looks and we don't want to mar them."

Reunion Brings Double Surprise

HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 5 (AP)—Taxi driver Lester Hayes of Des Moines, Iowa, got a double-barreled surprise today when he was reunited with his daughter after 16 years and learned that he was a grandfather.

The meeting occurred on Art Linkletter's "House Party" television show.

Hayes went on the show thinking it would be a means of getting in touch with his daughter, Chloe, whom he had not seen since he and his wife were divorced.

Mrs. Chloe Ricks, 24, of Willow Creek, Calif., surprised her father by coming onto the stage with her children, Michael, 4, and Peggy, 2.

Mrs. Ricks had been located by her uncle, Gale Hayes, San Antonio, Tex., newspaperman.

Dag Urges U.N. Standby Force

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y., Sept. 5 (AP)—Secretary General Dag Hammarksjold said today the U. N. should have a standby military force flexible enough to cope with any crisis. He said this could be arranged under a U.N.-approved master plan.

Hammarskjold made his views known at a news conference where he elaborated on recommendations contained in his annual report to the U.N. General Assembly which opens Sept. 17.

The secretary general said in the report that the value of a standby force had been proved in last fall's Middle East crisis, and that his office was studying what plans could be made for a U.N. peace force which could be thrown into action on short notice in future emergencies.

In response to questions, Hammarskjold made plain the U.N. force would be set up on paper and no supported on any year-around basis as a U.N. trouble-shooting body.

Shelley In Race For Teamster President

WASHINGTON, Sept. 5 (AP)—Rep. John F. Shelley (D-Calif), a former union official, said tonight he will be a candidate for general president of the International Brotherhood of Teamsters.

That is the post being vacated by the retiring Dave Beck.

Shelley was president of the San Francisco Labor Council from 1937-1948, and president of the California State Federation of Labor from 1947-1950.

He has been a member of the Bakery Wagon Drivers and Salesmen, Local 484, of the Teamsters Union in San Francisco since 1929. He has been a member of Congress since 1949.

Ban On Travel To Red Bulgaria Eased By U.S.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 5 (AP)—The United States today lifted its seven-year-old ban on all travel by Americans to Red Bulgaria.

At least three factors apparently lay behind the policy reversal announced by the State Department:

1. Both the United States and Bulgaria are searching for some way to resume diplomatic relations suspended Feb. 21, 1950.

2. Avery Brundage, president of the International Olympics Committee, told the department it would be ridiculous if the travel ban kept him from going to Sofia for a committee meeting Sept. 30.

3. The easing of the prohibition on American travel to Red China, announced exactly two weeks ago, set a precedent.

Luther Reid, State Department press officer made the announcement.

He told a news conference passports valid for travel to Bulgaria had been issued to Brundage, six other American Olympics officials, and Harvey Hudson, Associated Press staff reporter in Paris who was assigned to cover the Sofia session.

Reid said the relaxation did not end there. He said the State Department would consider on an individual merit basis any requests by Americans to go to Bulgaria.

Reid stipulated only that these by "persons having professional or other legitimate reasons . . . which are in the national interest."

He said also that any Bulgarian newsman wanting to visit the United States could apply for entry visas.

Jordan Airlift Planned; Dulles, Ike Will Confer

WASHINGTON, Sept. 5 (AP)—The United States, reacting to ominous reports from the Middle East, has decided to airlift defensive weapons to Jordan and expedite arms deliveries to Lebanon, Iraq and Turkey.

All these countries are neighbors of Red-penetrated Syria. The Syrian situation was described as extremely serious yesterday by Loy W. Henderson, deputy undersecretary of state.

In a series of swift moves today, the State Department indicated the United States might implement President Eisenhower's Middle East policy with further measures.

Secretary of State Dulles arranged to confer with Eisenhower as soon as possible, either here or at the President's vacation retreat in Newport, R.I.

The step-up of military shipments to the friendly countries bordering Syria was disclosed by responsible officials.

Job For MATS

At the Pentagon it was said the airlift to Jordan may start next week, with the Military Air Transport Service, administered by the Air Force, being given the main responsibility for the job.

The weapons going in will be part of 10 million dollars worth of military aid promised Jordan's King Hussein under the New Mideast policy adopted last March.

Defense Department officials said they would draw on U.S. military stocks in the European theater in the interests of speedier delivery. Some of these stocks will be tapped initially for Lebanon, too, they said.

Shipments to Lebanon, Turkey and Iraq presumably will go by ship—but much sooner than originally scheduled. They represent military aid already promised to these countries.

Reassurance Move

It was made plain here that the speedup is intended to reassure Syria's neighbors of American determination to help them maintain their independence in the face of any Communist threats.

In announcing the Eisenhower-Dulles meeting, the State Department said it was based on "deep concern" that Syria might become "a victim of international communism."

Henderson's statement yesterday was made after he returned from a fact-finding trip through the Middle East.

Confidential Trial Enters Final Round

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 5 (AP)—The final round in the spicy criminal libel trial of Confidential magazine opens tomorrow when the prosecutor goes before the jury to sum up 2,000 pages of testimony.

Dep. Dist. Atty. William L. Ritzi says his final argument will require two days.

He will attempt to convince the jury the evidence in the five-week trial proves Confidential and Whisper magazines and their Hollywood agents, Fred and Marjorie Meade, conspired to criminally libel celebrities and to publish lewd and obscene matter.

Probe Report Contains No Censure Of Chotiner

WASHINGTON, Sept. 5 (AP)—Senate investigators recommended today a study, for possible perjury, of an ex-convict's testimony about his relations with Murray Chotiner and others.

The senators, in a report on a multimillion dollar military uniform procurement scandal, made no criticism of Chotiner, who was vice president Nixon's 1952 campaign manager. Chotiner is a Los Angeles attorney.

But they said the Justice Department has been asked to examine, among other things, testimony by William A. Parzow of Philadelphia that he hardly knew Chotiner.

The report said Chotiner has testified that he did know Parzow, who was described as a convicted jury tamperer.

The report was released by the Senate Permanent Investigations subcommittee on its inquiry last year into military clothing purchases in the New York area.

In a statement accompanying the report, Chairman McClellan (D-Ark) said the subcommittee found bribery and inefficiency in the purchase of millions of dollars worth of this clothing.

He recommended criminal prosecutions, where warranted, for a number of the many contractors named in the report.

Of the clothing contractors named, the subcommittee said nine have been convicted on charges growing out of the investigation. It recommended no further government business for them.

Chotiner, in his testimony before the subcommittee, denied ever using any of his Republican connections to obtain any of the contracts that were under investigation.

Check Passer Who Operated For 11 Years In 40 States Arrested In Ohio

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 5 (AP)—The fascinating career of "The Traveler" —an incredibly clever check passer who operated unmolested for 11 years in more than 40 states—has finally ended, police reported today.

Detectives said the elusive mystery man used nearly 350 aliases and passed upwards of $500,000 worth of phony checks. He was picked up in Middleburg Heights outside Cleveland, Ohio, as a result of a routine police tip.

The man was identified in Ohio as Charles Speedie, 51, of San Fernando, Calif. Ohio authorities said he acknowledged he was the man who frustrated forgery officers throughout the nation for more than a decade.

Los Angeles police said the tip that led to Speedie's arrest came from the Lane County sheriff's office in Oregon. The sheriff there advised police here that a suspicious man was staying at a motel the same week a number of bad checks were passed in the area. Forgery men here checked out a license number given by Oregon officers, got Speedie's address and went to his home.

He wasn't there, Sgt. D. R. Sheldon reported, but in five sheds he was using officers found stacks of neatly crated merchandise, including photographic equipment, hi-fi sets, tape recorders, musical instruments and food and clothing. They said its value may range as high as $250,000.

They also found a book titled "How to Use Your Imagination to Make Money."

Speedie was seized in Ohio after authorities here wired that he was believed operating in that area.

Patrolman Robert Brown spotted Speedie's 1949 model car parked outside a motel in Middleburg Heights. Police said Speedie offered no resistance and was very talkative and cooperative.

"The Traveler" never cashed big checks.

His early checks, police said, were for around $58. From there, the amounts climbed with the cost of living and recently hit a high of $87.50.

Ike To Uphold Law By Every Legal Means

School Board Asks Court To Postpone Integration Order

[By The Associated Press]

President Eisenhower told the governor of Arkansas yesterday that he will use every legal means at his command to uphold the federal Constitution in the Little Rock school integration controversy.

In a telegram to Gov. Orval Faubus, Eisenhower did not specify what action he had in mind. But the President's headquarters announced Eisenhower will interrupt his vacation at Newport, R.I., Saturday and return to Washington for a conference with Atty. Gen. Brownell on the Little Rock case.

Faubus balked the scheduled integration at Central High School in Little Rock by throwing a cordon of National Guardsmen around the school. The guardsmen have prevented nine Negro pupils from entering the school.

Just before the President's telegram to Faubus was announced, the school board reversed its stand and asked a U.S. District Court to postpone indefinitely the court's order that Central High be integrated.

The board previously had supported the plan for integration and opposed Faubus' intervention with the National Guard.

The board said in its request for postponement that "tension has developed as between pupil groups" and that parents "likewise are forming into antagonistic groups."

Means To Truce

The board did not specify how long it desired to have the integration ordered suspended. If the court should modify its order of Aug. 15, 1956, that Central High integrate, it would be the means to a truce in the strife-torn efforts to have Negro and white children attend the same school for the first time.

The President's telegram told Faubus: "The federal Constitution will be upheld by me by every legal means at my command."

Eisenhower expressed confidence that Faubus and other Arkansas officials will give full cooperation to the U.S. District Court for the Little Rock area. And he repeated an earlier White House denial that there has been any discussion of federal authorities taking Faubus into custody.

Faubus, who filled the campus of Central High School with state militia and halted integration attempts by nine Negroes, sent a hot wire to the President of reports to take him into custody by force.

"Not correct," Eisenhower shot back by way of press secretary James Hagerty before hiking off for a game of golf at Newport, R.I.

Troops Keep Eye On Crowd

Faubus' troops, bristling with carbines, rifles and sidearms, stopped cold any attempt Wednesday by the Negroes to approach the 2,000-pupil all-white school. A federal court mandate had ordered integration.

However, the Negroes failed to show Thursday and the National Guardsmen, some 250 strong, confined their activity to keeping an eye on a noisy crowd of about 700 and warning newsmen of any activity which would "incite a riot."

State Adj. Gen. Sherman T. Clinger called newsmen together and warned of an arrest or fine "if you do anything that might be inciting a breach of the peace."

A short time earlier, a New York Times representative said an unidentified colonel approached him while he was interviewing a part of the crowd and warned: "If you do that again, you'll have to leave."

The newsman, Dr. Benjamin Fine, Times education editor, continued his interviews flanked by guardsmen until the colonel escorted him away from the crowd.

Racial barriers were being tested in other sensitive areas of the South with a modicum of outward bitterness.

A federal judge in Dallas, Tex., reluctantly ordered public schools in that city to start integration after the Christmas holidays.

"It is difficult for me to approve this order," said Judge William H. Atwell, "but this is a land of law and it is my duty to do what I have been ordered to do by a higher court."

Atwell had been reversed twice in allowing more time for study of

Two Pickets Seized At Easton Schools

Segregationists Stage Demonstrations

EASTON, Md., Sept. 5 (AP) —Police arrested three persons today in mild demonstrations which accompanied the opening of Talbot County schools, integrated for the second year.

Eight Negro children entered two schools in this Eastern Shore community unmolested and four more went to the elementary school at nearby Oxford.

Police said about 30 members of the anti-integration Talbot County Citizens Assn. showed up for the opening of Easton Primary School where seven Negroes were enrolled.

Francis Berry, a member of the group, was arrested on a charge of conspiracy to incite and disorderly conduct after, police said, he refused their order to leave.

He was carrying a sign which read, "Keep Our White Schools All White."

Lester Chance, 39-year-old farmer, was charged with disorderly conduct after police said he used profane language.

There were no speeches and no insults and no attempts to prevent the Negro youngsters from entering the school.

At the Easton Elementary, about a half a mile away, one Negro attended class with whites and one woman picket, Mrs. O. N. Andrew was arrested on disorderly conduct charges after ignoring police orders to put away a placard which read, "If We Want Our Schools All White.

All three persons arrested will receive hearings tomorrow at 2 p.m. Berry was released on $100 bail. The other two posted $50 bail each.

Police said two other women stopped carrying signs when threatened with arrest.

"Four Negroes attended the Oxford school without incident.

The citizens group had threatened to picket the schools last week unless Negroes were denied admittance.

State's Atty. Henry P. Turner had warned that picketing would be illegal. Sheriff Harold O. Bowman also warned that pickets would be arrested.

Henry A. Spies, a farmer who heads the citizens association, was among association members at the school today.

He accused the police of denying people the right to assemble and said "the police made the laws all by themselves."

Most Of State's School Children Back In Classes

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The die was cast Thursday for the great majority of Maryland's public school children.

More than 430,000 in Baltimore City and 16 counties returned to school for the fall term. They joined 40,000 who began classes earlier this week in Frederick, Carroll, Dorchester, Charles and Garrett counties.

Some 6,000 in Howard County will say farewell to summer today. And the last crop of students —about 15,000 in Harford County— will begin classes Monday.

School rolls were checked for the first yesterday in Baltimore City, Baltimore County, and Montgomery, Prince Georges, Anne Arundel, Washington, Wicomico, Talbot, St. Marys, Allegany, Cecil, Kent, Caroline, Worcester, Somerset, Queen Annes, and Calvert counties.

The tide of school children included 160,918 in Baltimore City, 73,880 in Baltimore County, and 34,000 in Anne Arundel County. Many schools were overcrowded to the extent that students were placed on half-day sessions or sent to makeshift school rooms in nearby buildings.

None of the three large school systems in the Baltimore area had enough teachers on opening day. All were using about one teacher in every ten with less than normal qualifications.

Baltimore County was short 32 teachers, Baltimore City 18, and Anne Arundel County five.

Noseprints Required For Canine Insurance

NEW YORK, Sept. 5 (AP)— The Animal Insurance Co. of America said today noseprints will be required of dogs accepted for life insurance.

Milton M. Weiss, the company's president, said a dog's noseprint is as infallible for identification purposes as a human being's fingerprint.

Weiss said his company is the first devoted exclusively to insuring the lives of pedigreed dogs.

Tanks For Lebanon

PARIS, Sept. 5 (AP)—The French Foreign Office disclosed today that France has delivered tanks to Lebanon, neighbor of Syria.

Car, $20,000 Stamp Collection Stolen

DALLAS, Sept. 5 (AP)—Policy today searched for a stolen car containing a stamp collection valued at $20,000.

Detective Bill Shewmake said the thief probably doesn't realize that 10 albums of valuable stamps are locked in the trunk of the car. It disappeared yesterday after being parked in a driveway of a home by the owner, Jonathan Halevy, a stamp expert.

Britain's Toll Of Brutal Child Slayings Rises

LONDON, Sept. 5 (AP)— Police found the body of another murdered child today. It added another case in Britain's rising toll of brutally slain children.

Four-year-old Edwina Taylor, missing from her home since Saturday, was discovered dead in the vacant cellar of a house a quarter of a mile from her home.

Scotland Yard said she had been strangled to death after a sex assault.

Edwina was the object of one of the biggest hunts in London police history.

More than 100 bobbies with tracker dogs, 200 soldiers and 20,000 people scoured entire areas of London searching for the flaxen-haired girl.

Less than three weeks ago police charged Horace Edwards, a 36-year-old metal worker, with the savage murder of 7-year-old Allan Warren.

Four days before that Scotland Yard sleuths charged a former patient in a mental home, 24-year-old Herbert Watson, with killing Joan Burton, 10.

Several weeks before that a small boy and his little sister were found murdered.

With Edwina's killer at large, Britain has 18 unsolved violent deaths this year.

There have been more than 90 killings since March 21 when the country's new Homicide Act — which eliminates the death penalty for most murders—came into effect.

Explosion Kills Three

VIENNA, Sept. 5 (AP)—An explosion at the big munitions factory at Hirtenberg killed at least three persons today, police said. An undetermined number were injured.

Legal Skirmish In Making Over Boat Wreckage

CLARKSVILLE, Tex., Sept. 5 (AP) —A dispute over what may be the remains of a boat which legend says was lost 103 years ago with a cargo of gold and whisky appeared headed for court today.

The wreckage was found in a sandbar on the Red River north of here by Benn Badgett, 41, a fisherman. He believes it is that of the paddle-wheeler, Jim Turner, which plied the then navigable river in the middle 1800s.

Badgett hired attorney Ed Shipp of Isabel, Okla., to press his claim to what may lie in the vessel's sand-clogged hold.

Then Mrs. Merle Ferguson of Clarksville produced papers she says gave her family salvage rights to the Jim Turner. She retained attorney Frank Edwards of Clarksville.

An octagon-shaped mast, studded with square handmade nails, is now six feet above water.

The Red River which uncovered the wreckage by changing its channel is falling after spring floods. It was such a change that covered the Jim Turner after it became stuck on a sand bar in 1854.

The captain, S.B. Allen, later became a banker in Bonham, Tex. Mrs. Ferguson says he gave her ancestors the salvage rights in a letter in the 1800s. The letter didn't mention the cargo.

An advertisement in the Clarksville North Standard in 1852 indicates the Jim Turner was owned by Oglesby & Griswold of Shreveport and Turner Wilson & Co. of New Orleans. Those firms have been dissolved but their records are being sought by attorneys for some indication of the cargo.

Oldtimers long have told of the imported chinaware, gold and 200 cypress barrels of whisky the boat is supposed to have carried.

Jack Logan, a Red River Valley farmer, tells of salvage attempts when the river uncovered the wreckage temporarily in 1911. Workers dug a hole in the sand, pumped water from the wreckage, and hauled out a barrel, he recalls.

"They started tastin' it and by the time they got sober the hole had caved in," Logan said.

school integration problems. The suit was brought by parents of 23 Negro pupils in 1955 against the Dallas Independent School District. In the latest reversal, the 5th Circuit Court of Appeals in New Orleans ordered the schools to integrate "with all deliberate speed."

At Sturgis, Ky., another Negro joined the 17 already attending classes at Sturgis High on the third day of nonviolent integration. There was scattered heckling and catcalls from a small crowd as state police cleared a path through white pupils who jammed entranceway.

In Arlington, Va., eight Negro applicants attempted to enroll at four white high schools. An orderly crowd of curious white pupils watched as school officials turned them away under Virginia's pupil assignment law. The statute has been held unconstitutional by a U.S. district judge but an appeal is pending.

Arkansas Paper Blames Governor For Dilemma

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., Sept. 5 (AP) —Arkansas newspapers have been slow to react editorially to the integration dilemma that has held the nation's attention for the past three days.

Only the state's largest newspaper, the Arkansas Gazette reacted immediately in a front-page editorial entitled "The crisis Mr. Faubus made." It called the crisis "one he must live with and the rest of us must suffer with."

Executive editor Harry Ashmore, who was on Adlai Stevenson's staff during the last presidential campaign, has long advocated "peaceful compliance" with the Supreme Court decision on integration.

The editorial said the Little Rock situation "is no longer segregation vs. integration. The question now becomes the supremacy of the government of the United States in all matters of law. And clearly the federal government cannot let this issue remain unresolved no matter what the cost to this community."

In Memphis, Tenn., just across the Mississippi river from Arkansas, the Commercial-Appeal said editorially:

"In broad terms, however, it is obvious that the federal government must proceed in some manner to obtain definition and clarification of the relationship between its powers and those of a state governor. Successful refusal by anyone to obey the orders of a court would lead to confusion that would eventually amount to chaos. On the other hand it is the solemn obligation of a governor to prevent grave disruptions in the life of his state.

"On the whole the clash is between an unrealistic law and the responsibility of a state's chief executive to preserve order."

British TUC Favors Full Nationalization

BLACKPOOL, England, Sept. 5 (AP)—The Trades Union Congress, parent body of 8½ million British workers, insisted tonight on a full-scale nationalization of Britain's industry.

A resolution adopted at the annual TUC conference urged that future labor governments get back to the old Socialist program of outright nationalization begun under former Prime Minister Clement Attlee.

The resolution came as an abrupt slap at present policy-makers of the British Labor party. They have urged a watered-down nationalization program — taking control of a few industries by buying up stock market shares.

Tax Assessors Win Extension

BALTIMORE, Sept. 5 (AP) — The State today granted Frederick County assessors six more months to make sure their tax structure is in order.

The State Tax Commission granted the extension after A. Lamar Barrick, Frederick County supervisor of assessments, said the additional time would be needed to survey all farm properties. The county assessors have been investigating—at the tax commission's behest—reports of inequitable assessments in Frederick County.

While granting the extension, the commission directed Thomas A. Cero, assistant State supervisor of assessments, to investigate the progress of the investigation.

The investigation was touched off last June when Robert L. Shipley, a Democratic assessor, complained of inequiable practices and quit. The tax commission called Frederick Countians in for a hearing.

Motives For Joining Nocturnal Devotion Society Found Varied

By HERMAN R. ALLEN

AP Writer

For a long time Jesuit Father Joseph B. Schuyler had wondered at the faithfulness of a large group of men and a small group of boys who voluntarily gave of themselves to their church.

All through the night between the first Saturday and Sunday of each month, the men—some 800 to 1,000 of them — entered their New York City Catholic church in shifts, prayed for an hour and quietly went home.

"In the early morning hours youngsters between the ages of 10 and 15," Father Schuyler said, "can be seen trudging along quiet, perhaps still darkened streets, entering the parish church, assisting the priest offer Mass . . . returning home for breakfast just as their age-mates are rolling out of bed."

Why, asked Father Schuyler, a Fordham University sociologist, were the men willing to interrupt their sleep, and go out, sometimes in bitter cold, to take part in the all-night devotion?

"What," he asked in a report to the American Sociological Society's recent convention, "explains this conduct?"

In search of an answer to these questions, which he said "may be asked of any religious devotees," Father Schuyler passed out questionnaires to 800 Noctural Adoration Society men in the Bronx and to 50 altar boys as well as other church groups.

To encourage frank replies, the papers were to be returned unsigned.

The 141 men who filled out the Nocturnal Adoration form expressed some 70 different motives. With some men stating more than one motive, there were 150 expressions in the category of "giving to God"—adoration, thanksgiving and the like.

Forty displayed a hope of personal benefit—"to save my soul," "peace of mind in worldly problems."

Thirty-nine of the 50 altar boys responded after being cautioned against giving merely "nice" answers.

Here again, the majority gave replied indicating purely religious motivation.

Twenty-nine, asked why they undertook to serve Mass, chose this from among eight possibilities on the questionnaire:

"Because it brings me very close to Christ and the Mass."

Second most frequent reason was "because I like to serve Mass."

Asked "What are the chief benefits you get from Mass-serving?" Most boys selected either "the happiness of being closer to Christ" or "the joy of serving Christ."

Eighty-four adults of other groups such as the men's Holy Name Society, returned the filled-in general questionnaire. Among most frequent answers to why they joined church societies were these:

"Makes me a better Catholic."

"The Holy Name Society comprises the lay right arm of the church in America."

"Chance to work for God and help the priests."

"The ideals of personal sanctification and helping others."

In summarizing his report, Father Schuyler said:

"The evidence is strong that the highest religious values of the church . . . are those which motivate these parishioners in their religious conduct—namely, union with God and increase in his grace or friendship."

However, Father Schuyler cautioned, "this is no more than a sample study; perhaps even the respondents' real values and motives are other than they suspect and expressed."

Woman Injured In Tricycle Fall

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Sept. 5 (AP)—Mrs. Ann Morris fell from a speeding tricycle and suffered a broken nose, two black eyes, a cut that required four stitches and various other wounds.

It happened, Mrs. Morris reported, while she was trying to push her 3-year-old son in to supper. She was riding on the back, pushing with one foot, when the speeding tricycle hit a bump in the driveway.

Mrs. Morris zoomed smack over the top of the vehicle and landed face first on the concrete.

Her son didn't even fall off.

State Takes Option On Land For Park On South Mountain

Old Penmar Site Would Be Included

HAGERSTOWN, Sept. 5 (AP)—The State Department of Forests and Parks has taken option on about 325 acres of the 500 to 600 it hopes to acquire for a new State park on South Mountain.

The park, approved by the Legislature, would take in the site of the old Penmar amusement park, operated by the Western Maryland Railway for many years and a mecca for recreation seekers.

State Sen. Charles R. Downey (R-Washington), who sponsored legislation to create the park after several thousand Washington countians petitioned for it, said the land already lined up includes the site of a spring.

He said the State hopes to use the spring to create a small lake in a natural hole in the mountain for boating and swimming.

No timetable has been set for complete acquisition of the land or construction of the park, Downey said. One of the biggest obstacles encountered by the Forests and Parks Departments is finding out who owns the wooded mountain land.

No condemnation proceedings have been necessary on the 325 acres placed under option so far, the senator said, and landowners have not been placing exaggerated prices on the property.

The Legislature provided $16,000 to start land acquisition although considerably more than that is expected to be needed eventually, Downey said.

Penmar is located near the Maryland-Pennsylvania line about 15 miles northeast of Hagerstown.

Thousands of Marylanders troop annually to Cowan's Gap State Park in nearby Pennsylvania and to Cacapon State Park in West Virginia.

Downey said Maryland hopes to create an equally attractive park with cabins and heating and swimming facilities at the Washington County location.

He said the Department of Forests and Parks hopes to have a flock of deeds ready for filing within a couple of weeks.

Esso Baltimore Refinery Will Halt Production

BALTIMORE, Sept. 5 (AP)—The Esso Standard Oil Co. said today it will stop manufacturing fuels at its Canton refinery here and lay off or retire more than 600 employes late this month.

Fuel products formerly manufactured here will be shipped in by tanker for distribution from the Baltimore plant. Asphalt and grease production will be continued.

The company plans to complete a $750,000 expansion of its deep-water terminal here which will be equipped to handle larger ocean-going tankers.

"Physical limitations of the refinery site" was given as the chief reason for halting fuel production here. The Esso announcement said the city's recent repeal of a tax exemption on manufacturers equipment and inventory "was not the major factor."

The company said about 500 employes will be laid off and about 115 older, long-service employes will be offered a retirement program.

Charles C. Swoope, refinery manager, said "wherever possible, surplus employes will be transferred to other company units."

For the 500 to be laid off, Swoope said the company will provide severance allowances and a job-placement service.

After the change Esso will have nearly 900 employes in the Baltimore area, the company announcement said. About 200 will be needed to run the plant and about 700 others will be employed in marketing and shipping.

New facilities which the company completed two years ago eventually will be dismantled except for units needed for asphalt and grease production.

Fuel products will be brought in by tanker from Esso's New Jersey and Louisiana refineries. Baltimore has been supplying about six per cent of the company's fuel products.

The company began operations at the Canton site in 1892.

Missing Youth Is Believed With Ex-GI Once Convicted, Then Freed Of Treason

ANNAPOLIS, Sept. 5 (AP)—A 16-year-old Anne Arundel County boy missing since Friday was sought today by police who said he may be in the company of John David Provoo, former soldier once convicted and later freed of treason charges.

Police said Robert Lane of Bay Ridge Road, a blond, blue-eyed youngster who suffers from a rheumatic heart condition, was last seen about 6 p.m. last Friday when his family said he went to visit Provoo who roomed across the road.

Police Capt. Walter Musterman said a missing persons report had been sent to other police agencies to watch for young Lane. He may be with Provoo, who also cannot be located, Musterman said.

Mrs. Humphrey Lane, the boy's mother, said the family knew the roomer across the street only as David Paul and did not learn until after Robert's disappearance that it was Provoo, former Army sergeant once convicted of treason during World War II.

The conviction and a life sentence were reversed and the charges were dropped in 1955 when a Baltimore federal judge ruled that the government had delayed too long in bringing the case to trial, thus depriving Provoo of his constitutional rights.

Provoo, who came to Annapolis last June, had reported he was having difficulty in maintaining employment because of his past record. He has held several jobs here, including work in a piano store, driving a dry-cleaning truck and most recently in real estate.

Provoo was accused of betraying his comrades to the Japanese after the fall of Corregidor in the Philippines and of causing the death of a captain who refused to cooperate with his captors.

He was convicted in the U.S. District Court for Southern New York in 1953 of treason and was sentenced to life.

But the U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals reversed the conviction and sentence on several technicalities including that Provoo had been tried in the wrong jurisdiction.

The case was sent to Maryland and after two years of litigation, U.S. Dist. Judge Roszel C. Thomsen dismissed the charges on the ground that Provoo could no longer receive a fair trial and had been denied constitutional guarantees of a speedy trial.

Stubborn Motorist Jailed, Fined $220

ANNAPOLIS, Sept. 5 (AP)—A 49-year-old restaurant owner who received six traffic tickets and one warning within 15 minutes has been fined $220 and sentenced to serve 20 days in jail.

The sentence was imposed yesterday in Anne Arundel County Circuit Court, where restaurateur Gordon B. Clark had appealed a $650 fine and 30-day jail term pronounced last month by Odenton Magistrate John Collins.

State Trooper L. V. Carter gave Clark all six summonses and the warning on July 19.

D.C. Appraiser Dies

WASHINGTON, Sept. 5 (AP)—Cyril J. Smith, who fixed official valuations for the District of Columbia of millions of dollars worth of items ranging from the fabulous Hope diamond to a gold brick, is dead at 69.

Smith, who gained national recognition as an appraiser in the District Register of Wills Office, was found dead of a heart attack by friends who went to his home after he failed to report for work Tuesday.

Circle Honors Miss Minke

The Jean Rowland Circle of Melvin Methodist Church met Wednesday evening in the church recreation room. Mrs. Betty Thompson was in charge of devotions, on the topic "Friendship."

Mrs. Barbara Perdew read the opening thought, "Take Time to b. Holy," and Mrs. Betty Adams, Miss Ethel Elbin, Mrs. Helen Waters and Mrs. Ruby Roby read Scripture readings. Mrs. Edith Riggleman presented "The Greatest Friend." Mrs. Goldie Street led the prayer.

The circle gave $55 to the Sunday school for school supplies as their project for the month. Members were asked to continue saving box tops as the project for next month.

Miss Joyce Reed was welcomed as a new member. Hostesses were Mrs. Eleanor Delagrange, Mrs. Betty Adams and Mrs. Ruby Roby.

For the social period, a bridal theme was used in the decorations in honor of Miss Joan Minke. She was presented with a toaster as a wedding gift from the circle.

The next meeting will be in the form of a friendship dinner, October 2 at 6:15 p. m. Each member is to bring a guest.

On The Line

by Bob Considine

NEW YORK, Sept. 5 (INS) — "I'm no glamor girl," said the strapping 62-year-old nun, Sister Mary Aquinas. She smiled through the white starched frame of her habit, her strong hand touching the white Franciscan rope around her waist. It was a fair denial. She is, indeed, much more.

Sister Mary Aquinas is a jet pilot. Actually, she is a propellor-driven pilot, licensed. But recently on the occasion of the 50th anniversary of the Air Force, the Air Force Association gave her a citation for her "outstanding contributions" to the nation's security and world peace, in line with the flying she has done since 1943 and the thousands of youngsters she has instructed in the art of flight. Many went on into the Air Force and fought in World War II and in Korea.

"Can we do anything for you?" a young Air Force general asked Sister Mary Aquinas after handing her the citation at Holy Family College, Manitowoc, Wisc.

"Why, yes, you can," the nun answered. "You can give me the opportunity to learn something about jets."

So the Air Force sent the former Civil Aeronautics Administration ground instructor eastward to McGuire Air Force Base, New Jersey, in a T-33, the two-place Lockheed trainer. They averaged 525 mph for the flight, and Sister was at the controls a good bit of the time.

"It's a wonderful plane," she said later, "and it was a wonderful flight. It was peaceful up there above the clouds, with the sun shining all about us. Flying it was as easy as flying the Cub trainer in which I learned to fly. But the T-bird is more sensitive, of course. A little too much pressure on the stick could throw you into a barrel roll.

"No, I wasn't afraid," she went on. "The only thing to fear in the air is fear itself. I'm a natural bird."

Sister Mary Aquinas is in search of a bit of foundation money with which to build a much needed school at her order's Wisconsin place. A million or two would suffice. She is a foremost champion of the "workshop" method of educating not only the young but the teachers of the young. She has been convinced for a long time that millions of Americans were educated incorrectly. Her constant thought and act is to do something about amending that colossal error. The new school, which she is sure will attract teachers from all ends of the nation, will fill part of that bill.

Don't bet Sister Mary Aquinas won't get what she wants. Becoming a pilot must have been something of a yawning chasm to leap over, the restrictions on such worldliness being what they are. Nor could it have been especially easy to serve a bewildering cross-section of students the intricacies of ground instruction.

The nun's "workshop" approach to educating the young, reduced to oversimplified language, appears to be:

1.—First develop a sense of good American citizenship in the student, a knowledge of his country, of democracy, and the people who shaped his world.

2.—Instill in the student a sense of his own dignity, his greatness, his right to earn his heaven.

3.—Inspire a youth to be so excited about his future, the work he'll do, the things he'll master, that he cannot become excited about moving into the shadows of delinquency.

The method is keyed to the student as an individual, not as a face in the crowded class. It is elastic and fluid enough to embrace the dolt as well as the class genius. It puts the question of education up to the student himself, utilizing the team spirit of others in his group in the way that sports do. His "score" is kept constantly. His team "captain" is there to help the sluggish one along. It all reaches toward an end which might be expressed as "let's get back to wanting to learn again." The proper foundations should give Sister Mary Aquinas a hearing. Her country did.

Soviet Scientist Indicates Russia Trailing In Some Phases Of Satellite Race

By ALTON L. BLAKESLEE
AP Science Reporter

TORONTO, Sept. 5 (AP)—Russia is not as far along as the United States in at least some phases of plans to shoot artificial moons into space, a Soviet woman scientist indicated yesterday.

The Russians have not yet built a model of their space messenger, she said. Nor have they finally decided on the weight and size of their moon or moons.

By contrast, U.S. scientists have completed their 20-pound space messenger. In this phase, they are ready to go.

But Americans haven't yet tested the final powerful rocket—built in three stages—that will send the little ball wheeling around in space at 18,000 miles per hour. Telescopic tracking stations to find it once it's up there will not be ready for at least a few more months.

Russia has not indicated how far along she is in these departments either.

A few details of the Russian moon plans were given yesterday by Dr. Valerija Troitskaya, general secretary of the Soviet Committee for the International Geophysical Year. An attractive, brown-eyed blonde, she spoke at a news conference at the International Union of Geodesy and Geophysics, which is one sponsor of the world-wide IGY studies.

Dr. Troitskaya said it was not yet known when the Russian satellite would be launched. She said it would be "sometime during the IGY" which lasts another 16 months. U.S. scientists have been equally timetable cautious, but hope to launch the first of six American moons early in 1958.

How many moons Russia launches depends on what happens with the first attempt, Dr. Troitskaya said with a smile.

As for other details, she said, "You must have patience—wait a few weeks." She meant that about Oct. 1 an IGY international committee meets in Washington to discuss all plans for rocket explorations of the upper air, and the U.S. and Russian satellite programs.

'Frugal' Congress Appropriated Funds At $700,000-Minute Rate

By ARTHUR EDSON

WASHINGTON, Sept. 5 (AP)—Congressmen spent considerable time complimenting themselves on how frugal they were, but even so they appropriated money at the rate of $700,000 a minute.

This greenback covered statistics stems from yesterday's Congressional Record, which gives a numerical breakdown on the session just ended.

To the astonishment of no one, 96 senators again convincingly outtalked 435 representatives. The Senate spent 860 hours and 44 minutes in session to 585 hours and 19 minutes for the House. This doesn't indicate a becoming modesty on the part of House members. It's just that their rules are much tougher.

Collectively this adds up to 86,763 minutes. The Record says that Congress appropriated $59,589,731,631 during the session—a figure that differs from some other estimates. On that basis we find that the money flowed at the rate of $686,810 a minute—give or take a few bucks due to errors caused by dizziness at such tremendous heights.

This is one of those useless statistics, of course, like figuring out how long it would take to paddle a canoe to the moon.

For much—maybe most—of the time Congress wasn't talking about money. Civil rights, for example, took up so much time that the senators had difficulty working in appropriation bills at all.

Furthermore, the Record doesn't keep books on the time senators and representatives spend in committees, busily whipping bills into—and, sometimes, out of—shape.

But the statistics show one thing: Any way you figure it, 59½ billion dollars ia a lot of money.

A few other numerical hints on what Congress was up to:

There were 14,013 measures introduced. These could be passed, looked at and turned down or plain ignored.

A moderately good proportion made its way into the lawbooks. The figures aren't complete, because President Eisenhower is still signing bills, but so far 539 have made the grade.

So if your congressman tells you he plans to introduce a bill, the chances of its ever becoming law are roughly 1 in 25. And unless he is in the right spot on the right committee, it's probably even less than that.

Along the way the Senate found time to approve 44,114 nominations sent up by Eisenhower. Mostly these were approved in great batches, such as promotions for officers in the armed services.

As usual, congressional words rolled out in torrents. They filled 15,292 pages of the Record, plus 7,292 pages of the appendix, wherein congressmen deposit everything from recipes for saving the world to what farmers' markets are paying for eggs in Minnesota.

This adds up to 22,617 pages, which at $81 a page for printing costs, comes to $1,800,000.

Which brings to mind what Alexis de Tocqueville, the French political observer, said after his visit here more than a century ago.

"To keep silence," Tocqueville said, "is the most useful service that an indifferent spokesman can render to a commonwealth."

And cheaper, too.

Peiping Silent On Visas For Newsmen

(The following dispatch was filed from Peiping by Frederic Grab, a 22-year-old member of the American group now touring Red China.)

PEIPING, Sept. 5 (AP) — The foreign office remained silent today in response to renewed inquiries on when visas would be granted American newsmen now waiting in Hong Kong to enter China.

The government appears to be awaiting the next move from the U. S. State Department, which has agreed to consider the admission of Communist Chinese newsmen as exchange for the admission of the Americans.

After Washington agreed to allow 24 U. S. newsmen to enter Red China, the Peiping government was sharply critical. It demanded that Chinese newsmen also be allowed to enter the United States.

Retired Railroader Reveals Big Secret

PENZANCE, England, Sept. 5 (AP)—Stan Hendra retired today after 45 years as a British railroad conductor and made public his big secret—he had found the plans for the World War II invasion of France several months before D-Day.

He told reporters the plans, in an envelope marked secret, turned up in a first-class compartment on a train speeding from London to southwest England where the Allied armies had gathered for the invasion.

The station master at Penzance opened the envelope, took a fast look inside and summoned the army. Hendra said he and the station master locked the plans in the station safe and stood guard until a small military force arrived to take over.

Hendra said he never found out who lost the plans and what happened to him.

Refugee Flood Rises

BONN, Sept. 5 (AP)—The flood of refugees reaching here from Red-ruled East Germany increased 14 per cent in August after a visit there by Soviet party boss Nikita Khrushchev. The August total was 27,590, the West German Refugee Ministry reported.

Anti-Missile Could Be Developed, Scientist Says

WASHINGTON, Sept. 5 (AP)—The former head of Germany's missile program says the United States can have a defense against Russian missiles within three years if it makes an all-out effort.

Dr. Walter Dornberger, who is now with the Bell Aircraft Corp. and is a leader of U.S. missile and rocket development, expressed that opinion in an interview to be published by the Army-Navy-Air Force Register.

Dr. Dornberger said an anti-missile, or a missile that would destroy another missile in flight, "is the only realistic way of defending against the Inter-Continental Ballistic Missile."

He said the United States could develop a successful anti-missile within three years, given "top priority, unlimited means and avoiding red tape and interservice squabble."

Dr. Dornberger also said that, assuming the Russians have successfully tested an ICBM they will need three to four years "to have a sufficient number of accurate reliable rockets in stock to launch a decisive attack."

More Entry Visas

WASHINGTON, Sept. 5 (AP)—The State Department says it issued more entry visas to foreign tourists but fewer immigrant visas in fiscal 1957 than in the previous year.

The announcement said a total of 906,599 visas were issued or reviewed around the world during the 1957 fiscal year which ended last June 30.

The increase for temporary visits by foreign tourists was 93,100 over fiscal 1956. The total for fiscal 1957 was 589,187.

The total of immigrant visas was 317,412 compared with 332,407 in fiscal 1956.

Facial expressions are hard to control but voices are even more difficult! Here's a trick you should learn!

Secrets Of Charm

by John Robert Powers

A Trick Of Voice

Harsh and shrill tones most seriously offend the ears of others and reflect adversely on your charm and winsomeness. They ring an alarm for all who hear them, immediately causing your listeners to post a mental guard against words.

Unworthy Words

Consider your own reactions to such tones and you'll recognize how natural such a response is.

Sometimes your facial expression softens the harsh effects of shrilly spoken words. You may sound like satan but look like an angel or sound annoyed but deny it with a smile. It is when you are heard but not seen that your voice can be most damaging to another's concept of your personality. On the telephone or when you are calling your offspring from the second-story window your voice is your sole representative. Then it "sings" a solo about your mood, manners and control, pegging them either as good or bad.

Every charmer must learn how to avoid voice impressions that damage. However irritated you may feel, count to ten before you speak. While you are making your count — take several deep breaths. Then let your words flow smoothly "through" your mouth in your normal pitch and, on the telephone, with your normal volume.

Warm and Winning

In so doing, you rid your voice of all antipathy, leaving it clear, warm and winning. Your desires will be more easily attained, and the standard of your private and public relations will soar to an all-time high.

Tomorrow: Breath Control

YOUR MOST ATTRACTIVE VOICE — You can achieve an appealing voice — a vibrant attribute to charm and success — by reading YOUR MOST ATTRACTIVE VOICE, which gives complete instructions on how to overcome wearisomeness and dullness. # U.S. Strives To Preserve Calm Front Toward Missile Situation

By J. M. ROBERTS
Associated Press News Analyst

By President Eisenhower's estimate, the world is now facing an "indefinite future of immeasurable peril."

The President said Aug. 28 that this would be the case if Russia, rapidly developing long-range atomic missiles persisted in her current attitude toward disarmament.

Wednesday, as both sides sought to bring the London disarmament conference to a parachute landing instead of a crash, Valerian Zorin said he thought he had made it plain enough that Russia was persisting.

Since he had rejected all the Allied proposals last week, he said, he didn't see why they kept on questioning him.

There was not the slightest indication that Zorin would introduce any more counter-proposals, which President Eisenhower said Tuesday would be necessary to keep the conference going.

At the same time, the President said the United States had no plans for further steps.

While all this has been going on, the United States has been trying to preserve a calm front toward the ballistic missile situation.

Transition of her own missile program from one of "crash" proportions to a regular operation was announced. Spending is to be curtailed by concentrating on fewer projects and elimination of shotgun methods.

This change was decided upon while the United States knew the Russians were testing new missiles, but before announcement by Russia that she had successfully tested an intercontinental missile. The plan will not be changed by the Russian claims unless, in practice, it threatens to delay the day when the United States will have the weapons it wants.

The President conveys the impression that he is skeptical about Russian attempts to make it appear that they are ahead with their program.

'Is this the beginning of a period of great new peril, rather than a continuation of the one through which the world has been living for years?

There was peril when Russia was enchaining Eastern Europe while the West had nothing with which to back its demands except the atomic power of the United States.

There was peril before Russia finally backed down on the Berlin blockade.

There was peril all during the Korean War.

There was and is peril in the Middle East.

Whether there is greater peril now, or merely a greater realization of it, will only be revealed by time.

So Russians Say

LONDON, Sept. 5 (AP) — Moscow radio reports Soviet astronomers from Kazakh are going to upper Egypt for International Geophysical Year observations. Their main interest is reported to be the optical characteristics of the sunny desert air around Aswan, a famous dam site.

Carpeting the bottom step prevents accidents. If vision is obscured by a bundle in your arms, your feet tell you that you've reached the last step.

France Honors Mayors Of U.S. Towns Named After Lafayette

WASHINGTON, Sept. 5 (AP)—The French Embassy rolled out the red carpet yesterday to welcome 19 mayors of American cities and towns named after the Marquis de Lafayette.

Ambassador Herve Alphand gave a special reception in their honor before the group left by chartered plane for France to attend ceremonies at Lafayette's hometown which commemorates the 200th anniversary of his birth.

The mayors and their wives sipped cocktails and soft drinks as Alphand lauded the close French-American ties that have existed since Lafayette as a 19-year-old helped the American Colonies win their freedom from Britain.

One Killed On State Roads Every 16 Hours

BALTIMORE, Sept. 5 (AP) — One person was killed in Maryland every 16 hours during July, and one person was injured every 29 minutes, Maryland state police said today.

The police report said July's 48 traffic deaths raised the total for the first seven months of the year to 307, up 5 per cent from the 292 fatalities recorded for the corresponding period last year. There were 1,532 persons injured during July alone.

Three counties—Baltimore, Cecil and Prince Georges—had seven deaths each during July. There were none at all in 10 counties—Caroline, Carroll, Charles, Dorchester, Harford, Kent, Montgomery, Queen Annes, St. Marys and Talbot.

SKIN DIVERS FIND MACHETE

CHICAGO DETECTIVE Herbert Christopher holds a 12-inch machete blade found by skin divers on the floor of the city's Montrose harbor, where the torso of savagely-murdered Judith Mae Anderson, 15, was discovered in two floating oil cans. About 100 volunteer skin divers combed the harbor, seeking clues. The blade bore black and red stains. (International)

City Hall Remodeling Job Begins

Workmen from the Street Department yesterday were removing partitions for a section of the City Hall basement to make more room for city clerk and city registration facilities.

William H. Buchholtz, commissioner of streets and public property, said the section formerly used for the mental hygiene clinics of the Allegany County Health Department will be moved up the corridor.

He said quarters will be provided for the Cit. Clerk, Registration Office and Civil Service Office, consolidating offices used by City Clerk Wallace G. Ullery on three floors of the building.

The clinic room will be added to the present registration room, and a counter placed the length of it, he added.

The health department will lose little or no space when it finally is moved to its new quarters, he emphasized.

Man In Prison Denied Plea For Writ By Judge

A plea for a writ of habeas corpus by a prisoner in the Maryland House of Correction has been denied by Chief Judge George Henderson.

The prisoner, Frederick M. Minnick, was sentenced to nine years on February 10, 1954, on a charge of robbery when taken before Judge Emory H. Niles in Baltimore City.

In his petition to Judge Henderson, the man claimed that he was walking with another man to an office where he was formerly employed. When they arrived they saw two men employed by the company with a bag of money for night deposit. Minnick claims the man with him grabbed the money and ran and he did likewise out of fear. He said he suddenly stopped when he realized he had done nothing wrong.

He was arrested and when taken into court he claims his attorney entered a guilty plea without consulting him. It was not brought out whether the attorney was court-appointed or employed by Minnick.

Judge Henderson said it has been held by every Circuit Court in the state that the Court of Appeals should be used by petitioners when they claim that there had been a mistake in the plea. Using the habeas corpus procedure is not the manner in which such cases should be handled, the jurist opined. The jurist also held that no complaint had been made to the court in which Minnick was tried.

Notes To Be Put Up For Sale For Housing Project

The Housing Authority of Cumberland will put up for sale $566,000 in temporary notes for use in financing the new housing project on West Oldtown Road.

Sealed proposals will be received by the authority at its office, First Street and Memorial Avenue, until 1 p.m. September 17.

James B. Raines, executive director of the housing authority, said the notes will be issued to the bidder with the lowest interest rates.

He explained this money will go toward financing the low-rent project on West Oldtown Road where a number of homes have been purchased and some razed.

The authority, Raines explained, is using a system of temporary financing until the project is well underway. At that time, bonds will be floated to cover the cost of the work.

The Authority is dealing in the private market, instead of going after federal money for this work, he explained.

The latest series of notes will be dated October 8, 1958. When this $566,000 in notes becomes due at that time, another group of temporary notes will be issued.

Copies of the forms needed for the proposals may be obtained at the authority's office.

The Allegany County Board of Commissioners will meet with Dr. Ton van Strien, who has been recommended for the post of county health officer, on Tuesday, September 17 at 1:30 p. m. at the Court House.

A native of Java, Indonesia, formerly the Dutch East Indies, Dr. van Strien came to this country several years ago after having been a prisoner of the Japanese during World War II. He holds a degree in public health from Johns Hopkins University.

Pair Wanted In Romney For Thefts Nabbed

Two young carnival workers stole a car in Romney late Tuesday night and went for a ride to Winchester, Va., where police chased them when it was noticed they were driving without license plates.

They are being held in Hampshire County jail at Romney on charges of car theft and two separate counts of breaking and entering. Held are Dewey Lee McCroskey, 21, of Narrows, Va., and Douglas Lee Mayhew, 16, Martinsburg, W. Va.

Trooper C. E. Davis of the West Virginia State Police detachment at Romney said the two are on probation on robbery charges, McCroskey from a District of Columbia count, and Mayhew from one in his hometown.

Both employes of the Winchester Amusement Company, which is presenting a carnival in Romney, McCroskey and Mayhew reportedly took a car from a used car lot there at about midnight Tuesday. After being spotted driving the tagless vehicle, Winchester Police chased the car back into West Virginia.

The two were apprehended after they wrecked the car on U. S. Route 50 on Bear Garden Mountain, just inside the Hampshire County line. The Romney State Police detachment was notified after Mayhew and McCroskey admitted having stolen the vehicle off the lot of the Pancake used car sales lot.

Trooper Dorsey questioned the two Wednesday in the course of which Mayhew said he and his companion had broken into a Romney pool room and made off with a quantity of money that had been hidden in a sack under a counter, and the proceeds from a cigarette machine and pinball device.

While the two were being questioned, Sheriff M. R. Hott of Hampshire County was called to investigate a breaking and entering of a service station located about two miles east of Romney on Route 50. Sheriff Hott contacted Trooper Dorsey and informed him of the breaking and entering, adding that hair and blood were on a broken window through which entry had been made.

Trooper Dorsey noticed that Mayhew had lacerations of the head, and the youth admitted to the charge. When apprehended, McCroskey and Mayhew had a total of $47 on their persons, Winchester police said.

Although both have been charged with the three counts, Trooper Dorsey said McCroskey admits to having participated in the car theft only.

Flow Of River Under Normal

The report of the local Geological Survey office of the U. S. Department of the Interior shows the flow of the Potomac River at the Wiley Ford gauge during August was 32.9 per cent of the 28-year average.

The observed mean daily flow of the river here during the month was 146 cubic feet per second or 94.4 million gallons daily. The flow varied from 80.8 million gallons August 31 to 132 million gallons on August 5.

A seasonal decrease in the Savage River Dam caused an average increase of 43 million gallons in the flow of the river here. E. H. Mohler, engineer in charge of the Geological Survey office, said the Savage River Dam provided anywhere from 75 to 80 per cent of the river's flow at Luke during the month.

Total precipitation in Cumberland, as reported by the Weather Bureau, was .77 inch, 2.71 inches below the August average. The average daily temperature was 71.7 degrees, which was .8 degrees below normal.

44-Year-Old Man Learns To Read And Write During Summer

A 44-year-old Cumberland man is a member of a group that has been taught to read and write in a summer class conducted at the home of an Allegany County school teacher.

The man, an employe of the Kelly-Springfield Tire Company, has learned to write what has been described as a "very legible" hand and his reading ability is equivalent to that of a first grader.

Although the summer course ended Friday, the instructor, Harold Bean of Baltimore Pike, said his middle-aged pupil has arranged for reading instruction to be continued at once-a-week classes, with the study confined to that subject since Bean said he felt practice was all that his student needed.

The man, it was reported, could only write his name since he had but little schooling while residing in West Virginia as a youth. The inability to read or write prevented him from advancing in work at the Kelly plant, although he was eligible for promotion, it was stated, and also blocked him from obtaining an automobile operator's license.

The 44-year-old man is one of 14 members of the summer class taught by Bean. The majority are in their teens and sub-teens, although one student is only four and a half years old, and another only five. The youngest pupil is Bean's son, whose reading ability is described as being at the pre-primer level.

Because of the age difference and reading ability of the different members of the class, Bean divided the group into morning and afternoon instruction periods, with his 44-year-old pupil reporting for evening instruction. His "prize" student was able to copy cursive writing in his fourth instruction period, Bean said.

A teacher for 26 years, Bean taught 15 years in West Virginia schools before coming to Allegany County. For the past eight years he has taught seventh grade core at Flintstone, and before that had served as principal of Piney Plains School for three years.

A native of Hardy County, W. Va., Bean received his bachelor's degree in education from Shepherd College, and his master's degree from West Virginia University.

The 14 pupils enrolled in Bean's reading and writing class attended from an area extending from Polish Mountain to beyond Cresaptown. All of them, he stated, have shown a marked improvement in the two subjects, and several will continue to get additional instruction during the coming school term.

Board Meeting Is Cut Short

The meeting of the Allegany County Board of Commissioners yesterday was cut short because of the long trip the board must make to attend the annual meeting of the State Association of County Commissioners being held today through Sunday at Ocean City.

Commissioner William H. Lemmert and James G. Stevenson, clerk to the board, left for Ocean City shortly before noon. Commissioner James Orr will leave sometime today. Commissioner Charles N. Wilkinson said he was not attending the meeting as "it's fantastic and a waste of taxpayers' money to attend the meetings."

Also meeting at Ocean City will be the County Engineers Association of Maryland. Attending from here will be J. Walker Chapman, county roads supervisor, and his assistant, Harry Skelly. Several joint discussions will be held by the two groups on road matters.

Join Congress; See The World

Among lawmakers they call them "study missions," "inspections," or "investigations," but the usual terminology is "junkets"—and they are in season again.

As always, the sound of the gavel beating out the final adjournment of Congress was the signal for a scattering of the nation's lawmakers to the four corners of the earth. With 34 committees in the House alone scheduling activities during the shutdown on Capitol Hill, 18 involve trips abroad and 12 will take their members to various parts of the United States.

Add to this the Senate program—unannounced but almost certain not to be overshadowed by the House—and there is reason to wonder how much the lawmakers' constituents will see of their elected representatives during their time off from Washington.

Europe, Africa, the Middle and Far East, South America, Alaska and Panama are among the destinations of various House groups. Within the United States hearings are scheduled in cities from one side of the country to the other.

What about the costs of these junkets? They come out of the taxpayers' pockets. In the past Congressmen have added to suspicions surrounding some of the expenses their travels incur by refusing to make the details public.

Before the present urge to travel runs its course among Senators and Representatives, huge sums of the public money will have been spent to keep them comfortable and on the go. The lawmakers argue that the costs of such travels are saved many times over by the information they gather to help them legislate more wisely when they return to Washington.

If so, the mystery is why they are so secret about their all-expenses-paid travel.

These Days

By George E. Sokolsky

Newport's Headache

I recall going to Newport, Rhode Island, many years ago to visit Richard Washburn Child who was heading a group to rehabilitate this extraordinarily beautiful city which was suffering from the Depression and from the death of many millionaires, their heirs apparently then not having the money to keep the magnificent estates going.

As a device, Newport instituted the Jazz Festival which attracted a crowd whose money is as good as anybody else's. But now Newport is to get a major gasoline installation and those who are not worried about their homes being covered by oil and soot are concerned lest they get a smog such as Los Angeles, once a health resort, now endures. The Navy has one of its principal bases at Newport and those who live there fear that the oil installation will imperil the city and the naval base.

An Advisory Commission of the Rhode Island Development Council, appointed by the Governor reported to him last May on the advantages and disadvantages of the oil project, the principal advantage being that it would add a new and diversified industry to Rhode Island, employing 250 local people, and many more during the construction period.

The objections were numerous:

"Detraction from scenic beauty of Narragansett Bay; water pollution and effect of high temperature of discharged water used for cooling purposes; air pollution; effect on recreation and marine life; lowering of fresh water table on mainland; constant stack flare from burning gases; possible adverse effect on present Naval installations and activities in the area and danger of the refinery's location causing the Navy not to expand the present facilities which it might otherwise do."

The Commission reported that the Navy employs over 10,000 civilians in the lower Narragansett Bay area and that the Navy would be discouraged from ". . . possible expansion of the civilian force of the Navy in the future. There is also to be considered the loss of business which would result from any lessening of the number of Navy ships visiting Rhode Island waters and the number of personnel coming ashore. Due to intensive Naval flying activity in the vicinity of the refinery there is always the possibility of an accident which could be serious. The Navy has made it very plain to us that the existence of a refinery at Jamestown would be incompatible with Naval operations in lower Narragansett Bay."

The Advisory Commission reported that the disadvantages outweigh the possible advantages of the scheme and that they oppose it. So far as has been made public, the oil installation is not a defense project but a private enterprise whose principal beneficiary is Gulf Oil. The refinery is being projected by the Commerce Oil Refining Corporation, a Delaware corporation, organized apparently for this purpose in 1955 by Harold M. Geller of Great Neck, Long Island, a lawyer, and Harry R. Lewis, neither of whom has any history in the oil refining industry.

The Jamestown Protective Association, which is opposing the project, in its communication to the Advisory Commission said:

". . . The cost of the entire enterprise is to be paid for with borrowed capital . . . the source of the capital, and the plans to obtain it, can't be disclosed. It is said that Lehman Brothers of New York have evolved the plans to create the capital. This is all we are told. Perhaps, it is foreign capital. Who knows? But you can be certain that the source of the capital will, in a very large measure, if not entirely, direct and control the operation of this project. You could not expect it to be otherwise. Certainly, $45,000,000.00 is not going to be delivered to Commerce Oil Refining Corporation without security."

Incidentally, the Jamestown Protective Association has been made defendant in a suit instituted by the Commerce Oil Refining Corporation, in which they are charged with a conspiracy to restrain interstate commerce. The Association defends itself that "as free men under free Governments, they (the Association) have a right to hold, express, and advocate their opinions, and have a right to organize and combine peaceably with other persons for the purpose of promoting their opinions more effectively. This they have done; this they are doing; and this they will continue to do."

Geller said, in an address:

"Resistance comes from organized minorities who have no needs for the jobs or economic stimulus, and, in fact, thrive better in a financially depressed atmosphere."

History And Professor Kim's Assignment

By Joseph Alsop

WARSAW

How many skeletons are going to come rattling out of how many closets in Moscow? The dead, dishonored bones of Marshall Tukhashevsky have now been suddenly exposed to public view, for the honors due to the relics of a hero of the Soviet Union. But will it end there?

These grizzly but absorbing questions are posed by one of the most curiously fascinating items of behind-the-scenes information about the Soviet Union that this reporter has run across in a very long time. It is solid information, too, coming from a highly-reputable Polish leader who talked at length with the responsible Soviet officials directly concerned.

One of the sequels of the Soviet's famous Twentieth Party Congress was an extraordinary order for a scientific and impartial review of all the political condemnations in the entire bloodstained period of Soviet history from the Revolution of 1917 to the end of the second World War in 1945.

The truly staggering task was confided to the historian-sociologist on the faculty of Moscow University, Professor Kim. The Professor is himself a member of the second Soviet generation, being the son of a Korean Communist who made the pilgrimage to the capital of the world revolution and married a Russian woman in Moscow.

To Professor Kim were handed over all the super-secret files having to do with political trials in the possession of both the Communist Party and the Soviet secret police. Incredibly enough, it turned out that from the days of the terrible Cheka onwards, hardly a single scrap of paper in the entire ghastly record had ever been destroyed. Every note, every affadavit, every instruction, every confession and pseudo-confession and verdict had been filed away with truly Teutonic efficiency. And the files were completely intact!

In addition to the files, there were ghostly but still articulate survivors. Frightful though the purges were, not everyone was sent to the firing squad. In each group of victims of this Soviet society that eats its children, there were always minor personalities who were condemned, perhaps not mercifully, to the living death of the prison camps. A good many of these are still alive. Professor Kim and his large staff of young historical students have been tracking down the poor ghosts and interrogating them about the cases in which they were involved.

Obviously, Professor Kim and his staff cannot have completed one-tenth or even one-twentieth of their huge and gruesome task. Obviously, too, the publication of Professor Kim's results is likely to be selective, to say the very least. For instance, will Bukharin and the other "rightist deviationists," who were purged for opposing agricultural collectivization, be admitted to the left of rehabilitated skeletons? It seems highly unlikely now. But who can foresee the future?

Meanwhile, the preparation for the rehabilitation of Marshal Tukhashevsky is presumably a first fruit of the professor's labors as well as a startling and vastly significant indication of the Red Army's enormously increased influence on Soviet politics. Marshall Tukhashevsky, almost beyond doubt, has always been secretly revered by Marshall Zhukov, who is his heir.

Even more than Leon Trotsky, Tukhashevsky deserves the credit for organizing the Red Army that Zhukov now leads. In one sense, Tukhashevsky was a victim of Adolf Hitler. Hitler's intelligence service prepared the documents exaggerating the long and close relationship between the Soviet and German General Staffs in a way that seemed to indicate a plot against Stalin and his state. These documents were then allowed to fall into the hands of President Benes of Czechoslovakia. Benes forwarded them with a covering personal note to Stalin himself. In the ensuing hecatomb, not only Tukhashevsky but also Dalen-Blucher, the great organizer of the defenses of Eastern Siberia, and virtually all the rest of the Red Army High Command went to their deahs. So much is known.

But there are also highly reliable indications that the atmosphere for the hecatomb of the High Command was prepared in another way. Being a wholly peasant army in those days, the Red Army was gravely demoralized by Stalin's wholesale massacre of the Russian peasantry. Tukhashevsky and the other marshals are believed to have warned Stalin very bluntly, therefore, that he must call a halt to the blood baths of collectivization.

Will it now be shown that the marshals were foredoomed, even before Hitler laid his trap, by challenging Stalin's omnipotence on the very same point that doomed Bukharin? This is only one of the crucial puzzles of the Soviet past that will perhaps be solved by Professor Kim's assignment, which is in any case an assignment without previous parallel in recorded history.

Baering Down On The News

By Arthur "Bugs" Baer

Latest merger is atoms-for-peace and tigers-for-play-pens. That means Niagara Falls will be packaged for shower baths.

Anything can happen although there's a small fine for some things. A fellow drove four elephants across George Washington Bridge. Would have gotten away with it if he had the right change.

The quartet of out-size doorstops was on a big-eared safari from Long Island to New Jersey. Same route used by George Washington himself.

The bridge has now passed all tests except a convention of egg-headed and atom-minded scientists. Somewhere on the government payroll there must be an opening for a bright young weight-guesser.

The elephants used the tail-trunk hook-up with knee action. The motor-cop who saw the four galloping gerties has put in a petition for change of venue.

You can expect anything that builds thirty-story annexes.

The cop on the two-cylinder stroller is now the elephant boy of Manhattan.

He was saved by his badge. You're not supposed to see 'em if you're not in uniform.

George Washington, Catatonics, And Mothers

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

George Washington was ill for 109 days during his first year as President. He developed a carbuncle on one thigh 10 days after the inauguration, and pneumonia set in as a complication. A year later he suffered another attack of pneumonia. A little penicillin would have gone a long way toward making his occupancy of the Presidential chair more enjoyable.

Dr. Maury D. Sanger of New York thinks some localized rashes have symbolic meaning. A skin outbreak on the ring finger may indicate marital discord and weeping eczema calls for sympathy.

Visitors to mental hospitals are impressed by the catatonic. These patients represent the height of negativism. They resist everything, but physicians have found that telling them to do the opposite of what is wanted of them gets a response from some. The majority sit rigid and motionless like wooden Indians.

These men and women appear to be in a stupor but are more percentive and alert than they seem. Doctors Lawrence I. O'Kelly and Frederick A. Muckler, in their book, Introduction to Psychopathology, tell of a student nurse working in the ward of a mental hospital. She was making a bed next to a catatonic patient who had been sitting in a frozen position for hours. The nurse, a talkative girl, remarked to a fellow worker about the stupidity of this type of case.

Her back was turned to the patient as she leaned over to straighten the blanket. Suddenly the "wooden Indian" let out a whoop and "planted a well aimed foot in the nurse's posterior." By the time she regained her composure and turned around, the patient had resumed his statue-like posture.

Chicago has a "mother bank" at Children's Memorial hospital, to care for neglected babies. These workers are volunteers, usually grandmothers who sit for several hours a day with infants under 18 months old. The babies so favored have been deprived of love and affection. They are helped by the attention they receive and the grandmothers are rewarded by the personal satisfaction obtained through their work.

SCARLET FEVER

Mrs. L. writes: My husband, mother, and I were with a youngster on Sunday who came down with scarlet fever on Tuesday. Is there any chance that we contracted the disease from this boy?

REPLY

The incubation period in scarlet fever is seven days, and by the time this reply appears you will know the answer. The chance of developing scarlet fever is slim because most adults are immune.

CORONARY THROMBOSIS

F. W. writes: Why are some heart attacks fatal and others are not?

REPLY

The majority of heart attacks are due to obstruction of the coronary artery. Death is more likely to occur when the occlusion is in the main artery, rather than in a smaller branch.

SPLIT BLOOD

V. T. writes: My friend claims she has that type of blood which splits into two parts or breaks into pieces. Is there such a thing?

REPLY

Yes, if she refers to that form of hemolytic anemia in which the blood cells are extremely fragile.

NITROGLYCERINE

Mrs. F. writes: Should a person with angina take nitroglycerine routinely or just when pain comes on? My mother won't take the medicine until pain appears.

REPLY

The medication may be taken either way. It always should be used when pain appears. Many victims of angina pectoris also take it before doing something that they know from experience will bring on distress. For example, a man who develops chest pain on walking two or three blocks to the station in the morning may take nitroglycerine before leaving the house for the train, to ward off an attack.

TOMORROW: A nuisance disease—undulant fever.

To the limit of space, questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made when return stamped envelope is enclosed. Telephone inquiries not accepted. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnosis or prescribe for individual diseases.

Try And Stop Me

By Bennett Cerf

Babcock phoned his boss from the Adirondacks to say, "You'll have to give me an extra three days of vacation. We're a party of twenty-five here, and if I leave now, it'll spoil the fun for all the others."

"Nonsense," growled the boss. "How will your leaving spoil things for all the rest?"

"You don't seem to understand," mourned Babcock. "The other twenty-four are girls!"

Three sophisticated young ladies, all approximately eight years old and veteran TV fans, were discussing what they hoped to be when they grew up. The first one wanted to be a movie queen and play opposite Marlon Brando. The second wanted to be a nurse who discovers marvelous new serums. The third was most emphatic of all. "I," she announced, "want to be a widow."

Asian Flu Scare Aids Drug Firms; Cole Arranges Atomic Job Benefits

While Drew Pearson is touring the Mediterranean, his column is written by his junior partner.

By Jack Anderson

WASHINGTON—They refuse to be quoted, but some government doctors believe the Asiatic flu scare has been exaggerated to sell commercial vaccine. Six big drug companies are working triple shifts seven days a week to meet the tremendous demand for vaccine.

Meanwhile, the United Nations' medical chief in the Middle East, Dr. Pierre DuPage, has cancelled orders for American vaccine on the grounds it won't be needed. He has told associates that Asiatic flue lessens in severity as it spreads, therefore the vaccine will be useless by the time it would arrive.

Dr. DuPage has probably handled more Asiatic flu cases than any single doctor. One day alone he reported 2,000 new cases at a refugee camp at Ba'albek, Lebanon.

American doctors who have been testing the virus at Walter Reed Army Hospital and the National Institutes of Health are divided in their opinions. They agree that the disease has been comparatively mild. It causes a miserable, but nonfatal flash fever that lasts two or three days.

Can Prevent Epidemics

Of 30,000 reported cases in this country, only six have ended in death. At least two of these, doctors found, were not caused by the Asiatic flu.

Some government medics agree with Dr. DuPage that the virus is losing its virulence, that the main effect of the new vaccine will be to boost the drug companies' profits.

Other doctors insist there is no way to forecast whether Asiatic flu will gain or lose virulence this winter. They point out the disease is highly contagious and usually hits 15 to 20 per cent of an infected community. The vaccine can prevent such epidemics, they say.

Six companies are licensed to produce the vaccine: Merck, Sharp & Dohme; Lederle Laboratories; Eli Lilly; Pitman-Moore; National Drug Company; and Parke Davis & Company.

The retail price ranges from $6 to $8 a vial, which contains enough vaccine for 10 doses. One dose should give immunity from four to six months. The companies refused to reveal how much of the purchase price is pocketed as profit.

Cole's Capers

Congressman Sterling "Stubby" Cole (R-N. Y.) is taking care not to burn his bridges behind him when he leaves Congress to head the new International Atomic Energy Agency.

He has been nominated by President Eisenhower for the job but still must be approved by the United Nations.

After Cole learned he might be the new world atomic energy czar, he slipped a rider into the law which authorizes American participation. His special sleeper would permit Americans to count their time with IAEA toward federal retirement benefits.

No other international agency offers Americans the same deal. Biggest beneficiary of the Cole rider would be Cole, himself, who has 22 years of Congressional service behind him and doesn't want to lose out on any benefits.

Cole also wangled a promise from House GOP leader Joe Martin to restore his seniority rights if he should come back to Congress after his term as IAEA head. This infuriated Congressman James Van Zandt (R-Pa.) who is second in seniority to Cole on the Congressional atomic "watchdog" committee. Van Zandt stomped into Martin's office and protested loudly.

Missing Desks

Cole has a reputation on Capitol Hill for nickel nursing. A few weeks ago, he did just about everything except call out the FBI to find two missing $8 desks.

He claimed to have purchased them for his kids from surplus Congressional stock. Surplus sales are always carefully recorded, but House Clerk Ralph Roberts could find no record that Cole ever paid his $16.

"Stubby" wrote Roberts several blistering letters, insisting that he had paid the $16 and demanding delivery of the desks. Roberts agreed to take Cole's word about the $16, but couldn't locate the desks.

Finally Roberts offered him two other desks, which Cole grudgingly accepted.

NOTE: "Stubby" has also exercised his Congressional privileges to get free work done at the House repair shop. A couple years ago, he ordered House carpenters to recondition an antique organ and antique cabinet for him.

News Nuggets

Tells off Ike—Indiana's curly-haired Congressman Charlie Halleck, No. 2 Republican in the House, scolded President Eisenhower and Attorney General Brownell to their faces the other day for appointing New Dealers to the Supreme Court. "The appointments you have made to the Supreme Court," snorted Halleck, "are worse than we had in the New Deal days." Ike listened tolerantly.

Enterprising promoter — During Congress's closing hours, Sen. Warren Magnuson (D-Wash.) rushed through a $2,200,000 appropriation for an American exhibit at Moscow's Gorki Park. This will be the first American display the Kremlin has permitted inside Russia. After the appropriation was approved, a New York promoter, Gottfried Neuberger, walked into Magnuson's office with a contract from the Russians authorizing him to stage the exhibit. Magnuson is still trying to find out who's going to present it, Uncle Sam or Gottfried Neuberger.

Red China travel — The 41 American students now touring Red China need not worry about State Department threats. True, their passports may be taken up temporarily. But in recent decisions, the courts have ruled that an American's right to travel abroad is a constitutional right which cannot be denied by bureaucrats. Inside fact is that Undersecretary of State Christian Herter didn't want to send the unprecedented tough cable, warning the young Americans against going to China. He was badgered into sending it by Assistant Secretary Walter Robertson, archfoe of Red China inside the State Department.

On The Side

By E. V. Durling

Reported nearing perfection is a method of weather forecasting which will result in predictions made a month in advance that will be 90 per cent accurate. Incidentally, the British publication "Old Moore's Almanac" came out one January and predicted the Epsom Derby of that year would be run in a snowstorm. The Epsom Derby is run in June. So the prediction inspired much jesting and jeering. But the Derby of that year was as "Old Moore's Almanac" had predicted in January run in June in a snowstorm. If that isn't the record for accurate long distance weather forecasting, what is?

ASKING

Queries from clients. Q. What was the first successful play written by Terence Rattigan, author of "Separate Tables"? A. "French Without Tears" presented on Broadway in 1937, featuring Frank Lawton and Penelope Dudley Ward. . . Q. Are you familiar with a limerick about Nantucket? A. Only one I know, which I am quoting strictly from memory, goes as follows:

There was an old man of Pawtucket
Who kept all his cash in a bucket,
He had a daughter named Nan who ran away with a man,
And as for the bucket Nantucket,

WILD DRIVER

This I saw. A lame man had the right of way on a crosswalk. An automobile driven by an adult male was approaching at high speed. The lame man put up his hand in alarm. The driver didn't slow up. The lame man jumped the best he could. The car missed him by inches. If you have adults like that inconsiderate, cruel wild driver around why be surprised when there are so many juvenile delinquents?

AMONG THE MARRIED

That beautiful and talented British actress Evelyn Laye is currently appearing in London in a play titled "Silver Wedding." In this Evelyn portrays a wife, who on the morning of her Silver Wedding Anniversary, tells her husband she is bored with him and has acquired a lover she intends running away with. One play reviewer said the idea was ridiculous because a woman who is celebrating her silver wedding is "too old" to have a lover. If a woman married at 21 she would be 46 on her Silver Wedding Anniversary. If intelligent she could appear to be about 36 or even 31 with the aid of a little plastic surgery. The women of 40 who can inspire and reciprocate romantic love are numerous. Anyway, sir, if your wife is that age, take no chances. Try not to bore her.

PLEASE NOTE

Am asked if Her Serene Highness Princess Grace of Monaco speaks French "fluently." Her Highness does speak French but how fluently I cannot say. All I know is that in talking to her husband, Prince Rainier, she speaks English.

WEDDING RECORD

Know anybody who was married in New York City in 1946? How are they doing? That was the record making year for New York City marriages. 104,548 couples were married in the Big Town that year. The average is about 75,000 a year. New York City has a very good record for lasting successful marriages. They say one reason for that is that so many of the marriages are of childhood sweethearts.

ASIDES

Mary Queen of Scots was the first woman golfer. So you knew that? Did you know she was also the first bride to wear a white wedding gown? Before that the brides wore red. . . The life of Christian Dior is to be the basis of a film. There will be no "love interest" in it. Monsieur Dior says he has never been in love.

You're Telling Me!

By William Ritt

Another summer has almost gone and Grandpappy Jenkins says he still hasn't solved the big mystery—why grass grows much more luxuriantly in his gravelled driveway than in his lawn.

A Russian expedition is seeking an Abominable Snowman described as being very hairy and wild-eyed. Sounds like a fugitive Old Bolshevik.

There are 55 different languages spoken by the various tribes of American Indians. And each, suggests the man at the next desk, no doubt, includes the same two words—"How!" and "Ugh!"

Off To The Dance

Barn dancees and hayrides, moonlight beach parties and barbecues—they're just the occasions for honoring the turkey. When the fiddles play the tune for Turkey in the Straw and the dancers kick their heels in a gay Turkey Trot, they'll merely be warming up for the moment when the real thing will be trotted out to add to the gaiety.

Though much appreciated, the turkey of long ago wouldn't hold a candle to the turkey of today—modern scientific breeding has made it meatier, tastier, more economical. And modern home economists have found new ways of preparing it to macth the taste of the most finicky of gourmets, or those who go only for the most plain fare.

No wonder Americans so far this year, at about one-third more turkeys than they did a year ago. But there are plenty of turkeys to go around—both frozen and new-crop birds are in bountiful supply, and in all sizes from the tender young fryer-roasters to the heavy weights, specially well suited for outings.

Northeastern family shoppers will find turkey sold in any form preferred—live, dressed, or ready-to-cook. A whole leg, including drumstick and thigh, of a large turkey will make four or five good servings. Each wing will serve one. Cross-cut steaks, half an inch thick or more, are an unusual treat. So are broiled turkey livers.

A good way to prepare smaller parts is by braising—you'll get a tender, golden-brown dish that's just delicious. Steaks may be braised either uncoated or with a crumb coating, and take only about 25 minutes cooking time.

There's nothing like a pie at a party or an outing—and a turkey pie is no exception. Your family will enjoy it too for an at home meal. Try this nourishing recipe recommended by U. S. Department of Agriculture home economics. It makes 4 servings.

- 1½ cups chopped cooked turkey
- ¼ cup cooked diced celery
- 2 tbsp. finely minced onion
- ¾ cups cooked diced carrots
- ¼ cup canned or cooked peas
- 1½ cups medium sauce or turkey gravy
- Unbaked pastry

Place turkey, vegetables, and sauce in layers in shallow baking dish or in four individual baking dishes. Bake at 425°F. (hot oven) 20 minutes or until hot through. Meanwhile, cut pastry into four circles or other designs and bake 12 to 15 minutes on baking sheet. Place baked pastries on top of pie and serve.

One cup seasoned mashed potatoes may be used in place of pastry. Add potatoes in ring around edge of pie before baking.

For medium sauce, use 2 tablespoons fat, 2 tablespoons flour, 1 cup broth derived from cooking turkey, and ¼ teaspoon salt. Melt fat, blend in flour. Add broth and salt. Cook gently until thickened.

Tuna Jambalaya

- 2 cans (6 or 7 ounces each) tuna
- ½ cup chopped onion
- 1 cup chopped celery
- ½ cup chopped green pepper
- 2 cloves garlic, chopped
- ¼ cup butter or other fat, melted
- ¾ cup uncooked rice
- ¼ teaspoon salt
- 1 whole bayleaf
- ½ teaspoon crushed whole thyme
- Dash cayenne pepper
- 2 chicken bouillon cubes
- 1½ cups boiling water
- 1 can (1 pound, 4 ounces) tomatoes
- ¼ cup chopped parsley

Drain tuna. Flake. Cook onion, celery, green pepper, and garlic in butter until tender. Add rice, seasonings, bouillon cubes, boiling water, and tomatoes. Simmer for 25 to 30 minutes, or until rice is tender, stirring occasionaly. Add parsley and tuna; heat. Serves 6.

Use Milk In Sauces

Good cooks make smooth sauces and use them to give variety and added flavor to main dishes, vegetables and desserts. A sauce made with milk has the advantage of doing its share toward getting more milk into meals.

For sauces combined with mild-flavored foods, use butter or margarine for added flavor. In recipes containing highly flavored foods or seasonings, a bland fat or oil is satisfactory for the sauce.

White Sauce

Here are proportions of ingredients for standard white sauces, and for low-fat medium and thick white sauces.

Thin, milk, 1 cup; flour, 1 tablespoon; fat; 1 tablespoon. Uses Cream soup; gravy; creamed and scalloped vegetables, eggs, fish, or meat.

Medium: Standard. milk 1 cup; flour, 2 tablespoons; fat, 2 tablespoons. Low-fat, milk, 1 cup; flour, 2 tablespoons; fat, 1 tablespoon. Gravy; creamed and scalsoped vegetables, eggs, fish, meat.

Thick: milk, 1 cup; flour 3 to 4 tablespoons; fat, 3 tablespoons. low-fat, milk, 1 cup, flour 3 to 4 tablespoons, fat, 1½ to 2 tablespoons. Binder for croquettes; souffles.

To make: Melt fat and blend in the flour to make a smooth mixture. Add salt—about ¼ teaspoon for each cup of milk to be used.

Add milk slowly, and cook over low heat, stirring constantly, until thickened.

Sauce Without Fat

To make a white sauce with no fat use 1 to 4 tablespoons of flour for each cup of milk used. Add flour to milk in a jar or can. Add about ¼ teaspoon salt for each cup of milk. Cover tightly and shake until well blended and smooth. Pour mixture into a saucepan. Heat slowly, stirring constantly, until thickened.

Milk Gravy

Make like thin or medium white sauce, using pan drippings for the fat.

Cheese Sauce

Add 1 cup grated cheese to 1 cup hot white sauce — thin or medium. Stir until cheese is melted. Be careful not to overcook.

Egg Sauce

Stir 2 chopped hardcooked eggs and 2 tablespoons chopped parsley into 1½ cups hot white sauce—thin or medium.

Vanilla Sauce

Add ⅓ cup sugar and ½ tablespoon vanilla to 1 cup hot thin white sauce. Stir until sugar is dissolved.

Chicken Tetrazzini

(Makes 4 to 6 servings)

- 8 ounces (half of a 1-pound package) vermicelli macaroni
- 1 chicken-bouillon cube
- 1 can cream of chicken soup
- 1 small can evaporated milk
- 1 can (3-ounces) sliced mushrooms
- 2 tablespoons lemon juice
- 2 cans (5 to 6 ounces each) boned chicken
- 2 tablespoons grated Parmesan cheese
- 1 tablespoon butter or margarine

1. Cook vermicelli as directed on package adding bouillon cube in place of any salt; drain; keep hot.

2. While noodles cook, combine soup, evaporated milk, mushrooms and liquid, and lemon juice in medium-size saucepan; heat slowly, stirring often.

3. Break up chicken with a fork; place in bottom of a 6-cup metal baking pan; arrange hot noodles in a ring around chicken; pour heated sauce over; sprinkle with grated cheese; dot with butter or margarine

4. Broil, with top about 5 inches from heat, 3 to 5 minutes, or until golden-brown.

Beef-Ham Duet

Sandwiches fit into summer snack or lunch time menus in a variety of ways. For tops in the sandwich field, overlap slices of beef and ham on a bun and top with a nippy mustard or horseradish sau .

Parties, picnics, lunches, whatever the occasion, August is a perfect month for planning these meals since this month is nationally known as Sandwich Month. Sandwiches of different varieties are almost a tradition for a party, picnic, lunch, or late evening snack.

Few foods are as convenient to serve or carry as sandwiches. So when it's your turn to have a party or plan a picnic menu, turn to sandwiches. Unique and unusual sandwiches due to the variety in fillings and breads are almost infinite in number.

Reba Staggs, home economist and meat expert, suggests a beef-ham do-it-yourself sandwich teas .

It's easy to arrange a tray with the sandwich "fixings" . . . from then on let the family or guests help themselves.

This particular sandwich tray has overlapping slices of roast beef and baked ham across the front of the tray.

Across the back of the tray is a bowl of prepared mustard and a bowl of horseradish. Be sure to have some type of greens included on the tray for the sandwiches. Sesame seed buns act as the basis for these meaty sandwich teasers.

If you're planning to take these sandwiches on a picnic, make them ahead of time . . . then, when it's time to eat, let the family or friends choose their own greens and relishes.

- Salt, pepper
- Melted butter

To assemble:

Place hamburger on pre-heated plank; arrange vegetables around meat. Season with salt, pepper and drizzle with butter. Put potata around rim of plank; brush with butter. Brown lightly under broiler heat in hot oven.

NOTE: ¼ cup instant potato granules mixed with ¼ cup dry whole malk and 1 cup water will make 1 cup mashed potato. Season and whip in butter as desired.

Artichokes Espagnol

Artichokes are a fine dish to serve hot or cold with hearty roasts or barbecued foods, and perhaps the best way to cook them is the way they do in the world's olive capital of Seville. Trim the stems and leaves, and boil in salted water, adding a clove of garlic. Grate pepper over each artichoke and pour over each a tablespoon of Spanish olive oil. Cover and boil until leaves pull off easily. if you serve them cold, make a dressing of four parts olive oil to one of vinegar, to which you might add relish, caviar or anchovies.

Here are enchanting fruit sandwiches skewered with toothpicks onto a pineapple candle, a-daisy-of-a-dip whose pale pink creaminess can be scooped up with generous fresh strawberries and a bowl of fruit for the big-bite nibblers.

Fruit Sandwiches

⅛ tablespoon cream
⅓ cup pecans, chopped fine

Cream cheese and mix with pecans. Stir in enough cream to achieve spreading consistency.

Fruit

Apples and pears: Place large, firm, sweet fruit on chopping board root end down. Make thin vertical slices, cutting to the core. Sandwich two slices with cheese filling and cut in quarters.

Pineapple: Place fruit on its side on chopping board. Using leaves as handle, slice thin. Remove peel by cutting slices into squares and proceed as for apples and pears, above.

Melon: Make muskmelon (cantaloupe, honeydew, etc.) balls with a melon ball cutter.

Cherries: Stem.

Bananas: Cut firm bananas into 1-inch slices and roll in shredded coconut.

Grapes: Steam seedless grapes.

Skewers: Skewer fruit on toothpicks, using only one "sandwich" on each skewer, and alternating fruits for color. Garnish some of the skewers with mint leaf "wings."

Dip apples, pears, and bananas in citrus fruit juice to avoid darkening, or use a commercial antioxidant.

A-Daisy-Of-A-Dip
1 ten-ounce box quick-frozen raspberries
2 cups commercial sour cream
¼ cup confectioner's sugar
¼ teaspoon almond extract
¼ cup blanched almonds, slivered
1 quart strawberries

Drain juice from thawed berries. Mix drained berries with sour cream, confectioner's sugar, almond extract and almonds. Add mor sugar, to taste, if necessary. Place mixture in a fancy bowl. Center bowl on an attractive plate. Top mixture with a "daisy" made of blanched almond "petals" and a raspberry center. Arrange unhulled strawberries on plate around dip. Makes 6-8 servings.

Homemakers Can Find Pleasure And Pride In Creating Lovely Table Settings

Did you know that dinner plates, knives, forks, spoons, napkins, etc. should be placed one inch from the edge of the table? Also that the bread-and-butter plate is placed above forks—which are usually at left of the dinner plate? Allow plenty of space between place settings—at least 20 to 24 inches—to avoid crowded seating. Keep centerpiece decoration low so your guests won't crane their necks in conversation. The lady honor guest sits at host's right—wherever the host might be seated and the gentleman honor guest sits at hostess' right. These are just a few of the many helpful hints in a beautiful 36-page colored booklet on Melmac dinnerware to acquaint milady with facts that affluent people have used. The booklet illustrates, in full color, more than 14 complete table settings treating all of the newest colors and how to accentuate them. There is a nominal charge of a quarter for handling postage prepaid from Cyanamid, Post Office Box 20, New York 10, N. Y.

Spanish Tomatoes And Eggs

A good luncheon dish from Spain is made by slicing the top off a tomato, hollowing it out and sauteing the tomato shell in Spanish olive oil for three minutes. Break an egg into the tomato, grate cheese on top, and bake in a 375° oven for five or six minutes. You can serve these with rice or your favorite cream sauce, adding the cheese to the sauce and garnishing with chopped stuffed olives.

Gov. McKeldin And Bull Have Big Day At Fair

TIMONIUM, Md., Sept. 5 (AP) — A man with many masters and a huge black animal with three found their way into the limelight at the Maryland State Fair today.

The man was Gov. McKeldin and this was his day at the fair. Maryland's Public Servant No. 1 was guest at a luncheon, received a cake and wandered about the fairgrounds shaking hands and inspecting the exhibits.

The animal was Caroland Bandolier Lad 22, a senior yearling bull chosen the grand champion of 36 bulls entered in the judging of Aberdeen-Angus breeding cattle.

Competition in the garden, homemaking and livestock divisions of the fair ended today. However, all animals and exhibits must remain on the grounds until dusk tomorrow. The annual pony sale will be held tomorrow night.

Gov. McKeldin came to the fair for the second straight day, this time as honor guest for Governor's Day. He was here yesterday to speak at an Advertising Club luncheon.

Yesterday he came by helicopter. But today he arrived in his big black sedan. Fair officials met him at the main gate at noon and escorted him down the midway to the Administration Building for lunch.

McKeldin was accompanied by his daughter, Clara. During the luncheon he was presented with the winning cake in the Governor's Cake division. It was a two-tier yellow cake topped with white icing and decorated with the state flower.

The cake was baked by Mrs. Clarence Pearce of Parkton, Baltimore County.

Miss McKeldin was presented with the winning corsage in the "First Lady of Maryland" flower class. It won a blue ribbon for Mrs. George Burnham of Pikesville, Baltimore County.

The triumph of Caroland Bandolier Lad 22 was not unexpected in the Aberdeen-Angus show. The bull was named grand champion Angus of the Ohio State Fair earlier this summer.

He is owned by three farms: Marion Harper & Sons of Staunton, Va., Ankony of Rhinebeck, N.Y., and Amandale Farm of Upperville, Va.

The grand champion female was shown by Edgar M. Lucas' Swan Point Farm at Rock Hall, Md. The animal, Meadow Lane Enetha, was chosen over the Ohio State Fair's grand champion female, Amandale Eline 9th, owned jointly by Marion Harper & Sons and Angus Valley Farm of Tulsa, Okla.

Premium Slated For Farmers In Bank Program

Farmers who took part in the Soil Bank's 1957 Acreage Reserve program can earn a 10 per cent premium this year above the 1958 program compensation rates, James H. Weimer, chairman of the Allegany County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Committee, announced yesterday.

The condition attached to the higher payments is that the farmer put the identical land in the 1958 Acreage Reserve as was included in the 1957 program.

This is in line with the promise to farmers in August of last year, the chairman explained, that "farmers entering land in the 1957 (winter wheat acreage reserve) program will be offered incentives to designate the same land in future programs."

Farmers are now calling at County ASC offices throughout the state, signing agreements to participate in the 1958 winter acreage reserve program.

All farmers who have an "old farm" wheat acreage allotment for 1958 and who normally grow winter wheat, are eligible to sign an acreage reserve agreement before the program's deadline, which is October 4.

Under the 1958 program, farmers must reduce their acreage of winter wheat below the farm wheat program allotment and they must also limit their harvest of all crops to a "permitted acreage." This is intended to prevent shifts from one harvested crop to another, which results in new surpluses.

Except that no one producer may earn more than $3,000 in total acreage reserve payments on any one farm, no limits are placed on the number of acres which may be offered under the 1958 wheat program.

Individual farm payments will be based on a county average rate per acre, adjusted primarily according to the productivity of the land.

W. Md. Crops Need Rainfall

COLLEGE PARK, Md., Sept. 5 (AP) — Western Maryland, largely neglected by last week's drought-ending rains, still needs rain badly for fruit and field crops, agricultural experts report.

The Maryland-Delaware Crop and Weather Report for the week ended Aug. 30 said the dry area included Allegany and Garrett Counties and the western part of Washington County.

In this important fruit area, the report said, sizing of apples has been held back by the dryness. However, the peach harvest was reaching its peak last week in Washington County.

Elsewhere in Maryland and Delaware, the report said, most crops have responded rather well to the rains.

"Most spectacular response to the August rains was shown by soybeans and late vegetables on the Delmar Peninsula and tobacco in Southern Maryland," the report said. "Pastures show considerable improvement; and prospects for alfalfa and lespedeza hay have improved. Rain came too late to help the corn crop in most localities."

Future Construction Contracts Decrease

July contracts for future construction in Maryland amounted to $46,240,000, or 30 per cent below July 1956, according to F. W. Dodge Corporation, construction news and marketing specialists.

Contracts by the major construction categories in July compared to the like month last year showed: non-residential at $16,777,000, down 43 per cent; residential at $25,222,000, down two per cent; and heavy engineering at $4,241,000, down 59 per cent.

Construction contracts for the first seven months of 1957 compared to the year-earlier period showed: non-residential at $135,912,000, up four per cent; residential at $157,331,000, down 14 per cent; heavy engineering at $64,682,000, down five per cent; and total construction at $357,925,000, down six per cent.

PSC Requested To Reject Hike In Phone Rates

BALTIMORE, Sept. 5 (AP) — The Public Service Commission was asked today to reject or at least delay the rate increases the Chesapeake and Potomac Telephone Co. wants to put into effect Sept. 16.

People's Counsel Wilfred T. McQuaid, contending the proposed boosts would be illegal, asked that they be denied.

Barring a rejection he asked the commission to suspend the proposed increases for 120 days and make a full investigation of the proposal.

Baltimore City Solicitor Hugo A. Ricciuti also asked for a 120-day suspension to determine if the rates asked are "warranted and reasonable."

C&P proposes to up rates by $6,855,000 a year. It has said that along with the increases will come improved service and elimination of certain toll charges.

McQuaid, people's counsel to the PSC, said if an increase is granted it should be much lower than those proposed.

He said the company based its rate schedule on a return of 6½ per cent and that such a return would be in excess of the 6 per cent top set by the PSC Sept. 1.

McQuaid held it is against the public interest to permit such increases to become effective without a public hearing.

The company in a statement issued today, said if McQuaid's request is approved it would prevent the C&P's "wider range calling plan" from going into effect and also deprive the company of needed revenue.

C&P Vice President W. G. Morrel said the company has offered to file a bond which "fully protects the public while the commission conducts its investigation."

McQuaid's motion noted this was the sixth rate increase asked by the company since 1946.

The phone company statement said "telephone rates since the war have gone up on the average about one-third as much as the cost of living."

Local Barber Buys Business

Michael F. Yantorno Jr., of 203 Fayette Street, has purchased the barbering business of Percy Zembower at 106 South Liberty Street.

Mr. Yantorno, who was recently discharged from the Navy after nine years of service, first began barbering here in 1937.

Mr. Zembower and his brother, Charles Zembower, will continue to work at the shop, according to Mr. Yantorno, who plans to name it the Strand Barber Shop.

The barber shop has been located at the South Liberty Street address for over 20 years.

Start-The-Day Corn Cakes

Sift together 2 cups sifted flour, 3 teaspoons double-acting baking powder and 1 teaspoon salt. Combine 2 well-beaten eggs, 1 can (1 lb.) cream-style corn and 2 cups milk; stir into dry ingredients with ¼ cup melted butter or margarine. Bake on lightly greased griddle or in frying pan until golden brown, turning once. Put pancakes in warm oven to keep hot until all cakes are baked. Serve hot with heated, canned maple syrup, crisp bacon or 1 can (8 oz.) breakfast sausages heated according to label directions.

Apple Custard

1 cup canned apple slices, drained
3 tablespoons sugar
¼ teaspoon salt
2 eggs, beaten
1½ cups hot milk
Nutmeg

Arrange apples in bottom of four custard cups. Combine sugar, salt, and eggs. Add milk slowly. Pour over apples, sprinkle with nutmeg.

Set cups in a pan of hot water. Bake at 350°F. (moderate oven) for 30 to 40 minutes, or until custard is set.

4 servings. Over ½ cup milk per serving.

Peaches

Homemakers can count on both fresh peaches and ample supplies of canned Freestones from the 1956 crop to round out all menu needs. You can't beat a fresh peach for out of hand eating. It also rates high in any meal of the day. Serve as a breakfast fruit, sprinkled with sugar and covered with cream, or heaped on dry cereals.

For lunch, try in a fruit cup with other fruits, or with berries. In refreshing salads, combine with cottage or cream cheese, with lettuce or other fruits, with potato salad and carrot strips, and other salad favorites. They go well with meat dishes, especially when pickled—slightly underripe peaches make the best pickles.

Peaches make wonderful desserts. Bake in a luscious pie or combine with biscuit or sponge cake and whipped cream for Peach Shortcake. Peach Melba is especially easy to make—just place a scoop of vanilla ice cream into the hollow of a peach half, pour a little raspberry syrup on top, and add a few chopped nuts. Peach sauce and sliced peaches on top of a serving of ice cream will make a wonderful sundae.

For an extra special "company" dessert, try your hand at a delicious Creme Brulee with Peaches, recommended by Extension Service home economists. This recipe makes 6 servings.

1 cup milk
1 cup light cream
2 eggs, slightly beaten
¼ cup granulated sugar
⅛ teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon vanilla
¾ cup brown sugar
12 peach halves

Heat the milk and cream in top of a double boiler to scalding. Combine eggs, sugar and salt and gradually stir into the hot mixture. Cook in double boiler until spoon coats, stirring constantly. Add vanilla and cool. Pour into a shallow baking dish. When custard is thick and set, place baking dish in a larger pan and surround with ice. Sprinkle with brown sugar to cover. Broil until sugar is bubbly and melted. Keep cold until serving time. Serve over chilled peach halves.

Very Special: Pineapple Pork Chop Roast

A galaxy of good things go into dressing.

Some food flavors just naturally seem to accent each other—such as pork and pineapple. You'll agree they make the best of partners once you've tasted Pineapple Pork Chop Roast. It's real fun to cook something different, and this combination will give you a new taste treat.

A galaxy of good things go into the stuffing—chopped parsley, ginger, marjoram, onion and celery—with delicious pineapple chunks added for a just right fruity flavor.

PINEAPPLE PORK CHOP ROAST

Salt
Pepper
Paprika
2 tablespoons butter
1 cup chopped onion
½ cup chopped celery
3½ cups lightly toasted day-old bread crumbs
2 cups canned pineapple tidbits
2 tablespoons chopped parsley
½ teaspoon ginger
½ teaspoon marjoram
¾ teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon black pepper

Trim any excess fat from chops; sprinkle with salt, pepper, paprika. Brown lightly in greased frying pan. Remove. Add butter. Saute' onion and celery until soft but not brown. Pour over bread crumbs. ## Carnival Casserole

2 cans (1 lb. each) whole-kernel corn, drained
1½ cups packaged poultry stuffing
½ cup chopped onion
¼ cup chopped parsley
½ cup chopped canned pimiento
½ cup milk
1 teaspoon salt
8 slices canned or boiled ham, cut about ⅛ inch thick
1 package (½ lb.) processed cheese cut in 8 slices

Combine corn, poultry stuffing, onion, parsley, pimiento, milk and salt; turn into 13 x 9 x 2-inch baking pan or 2-quart baking dish. Arrange alternate slices of ham and cheese over corn mixture. Bake in moderate oven (375°F.) 25 minutes, or until thoroughly heated.

Note: This casserole is a make-ahead timesaver, for you can get it already to bake early in the day; and bake it off just at party time, adding an extra 5 to 10 minutes to the oven time.

Makes 8 servings.

Hearty Corn Pie

1 large onion, chopped
½ green pepper, chopped
3 tablespoons shortening
⅓ cup flour
2½ cups milk
1 can (12 oz.) luncheon meat, cubed
1 can (1 lb.) whole-kernel corn, drained
1 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce
½ teaspoon salt
Dash of pepper
½ package pie crust mix
½ cup (2 oz.) shredded processed American cheese

Cook onion and green pepper in shortening 5 minutes; blend in flour; gradually add milk. Cook, stirring constantly, until sauce thickens and boils 1 minute. Add luncheon meat, corn, Worcestershire sauce, salt and pepper; turn into 2-quart baking dish. Combine pastry mix and cheese; prepare according to package directions using one half the liquid required. Roll out on lightly floured board; cut air vents in pastry; fit crust over corn filling. Bake in hot oven (425°F.) 15 to 18 minutes, or until bubbling and browned.

Makes 5 to 6 servings.

Early-Bird Corn Waffles

1 egg, well beaten
1¾ cups milk
1 can (1 lb.) cream-style corn
2½ cups prepared pancake flour
¼ cup butter or margarine, melted

Fish Stick Burgers

12 fish sticks
6 buttered toasted rolls

Place the fish sticks in a single layer in a baking pan. Bake in a hot oven, 400° F., for 15 to 20 minutes or until heated through and crisp. Place two fish sticks on a toasted buttered roll and serve with quick tartar sauce. Serves 6.

Cheese Main Dishes

Cheese Souffle

1½ cups milk
1 cup break crumbs
1 tablespoon fat
4 eggs
½ pound cheese, shaved thin (2 cups)
¾ teaspoon salt
Pepper to taste

Heat the milk, bread crumbs, and fat in a double boiler. For the crumbs, crumble up leftover pieces of bread and pack the measure well. Do not use fine, very dry crumbs. Add cheese to the hot mixture. Stir until the cheese has melted. Add this mixture to the well-beaten egg yolks. Season. Fold hot mixture into the stiffly beaten egg whites containing the salt. Pour into a greased dish, and bake in a moderate oven for 1 hour, or until set in the center.

Scrambled Eggs With Cheese

Cheese, Corn, and Tomato

3 tablespoons flour
3 tablespoons melted fat
1 onion, sliced
2 cups cooked tomatoes
2 cups cooked corn
2 teaspoons salt
¼ to ½ pound cheese, cut thin (1 to 2 cups)

Brown the flour in a heavy skillet. Take flour from the skillet and blend with 2 tablespoons of the fat. Brown the onion in the remaining fat, add the tomatoes, corn, salt, and flour-fat mixture and cook for about 10 minutes. Stir in the cheese. When it has melted, serve on thin crisp toast.

Cheese Puff

8 slices bread
½ pound cheese, grated (2 cups)
3 eggs
2 cups milk
½ teaspoon salt
Pepper, paprika, mustard, if desired

Fit four bread slices into the bottom of a greased baking dish. Sprinkle with half the cheese; cover with remaining bread. Beat eggs; add milk and seasonings; pour over the bread-and-cheese mixture and cover with remaining cheese. Set baking dish in a pan of hot water and bake in a moderate oven for about 40 minutes or until the custard is set and the bread is puffed up.

Carl Erskine Posts 3-1 Win Over Roberts

Walker And Furillo Lead Batting Attack

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 5 (AP) — Brooklyn kept its dim pennant hopes flickering tonight with a 3-1 victory over Phildelphia, fashioned on the fine pitching of Carl Erskine and Ed Roebuck and run-producing doubles by Al Walker and Carl Furillo.

Richie Ashburn, however, was the spoiler of Erskine's shutout bid. Ashburn lined a double off the right field wall to lead off the fourth, the first hit off the 30-year-old righthander. The little Phillie outfielder drew a walk in the sixth. But going into the eight, those were the only debits in Erskine's performance.

Then Gran Hamner beat out an infield roller to shortstop and went to second on a wild pitch. Ted Kazanski's single brought him home. Erskine got the next two batters. Then Ashburn lined a two-base hit to right and Roebuck came in. Rip Repulski flied to centerfield, ending the threat.

Overshadowed by Erskine's performance was a fine job by Robin Roberts, who gave up six hits, struck out seven and walked one before he retired for a pinchhitter in the eighth inning uprising. Dick Farrell retired the Dodgers in order in the ninth.

Walker's two-run double in the second inning after Furillo and Charlie Neal had singled provided enough for the Dodgers to win. Furillo's double behind Gil Hodges infield hit and a passed ball was frosting on the cake.

Fort Lee Wins 2nd Army Tilt

Tops Army Chemical In Tournament, 2-0

FT. LEE, Va., Sept. 5 (AP)—Ft. Lee's defending champions got shutout pitching for the second straight game today and eliminated the Army Chemical Center of Maryland 2-0 in the 2nd Army Baseball Tournament.

In a morning game, Aberdeen Proving Ground, Md., had ousted Ft. Detrick, Md., 5-2.

Games tonight in the winner's bracket sent Ft. Knox, Ky., 1-0 in the double-elimination tournament against Ft. Belvoir, Va. (2-0) and Ft. Myer, Va. (1-0) against Ft. Meade, Md. (1-0).

Lefthander Ed Fouchey, who formerly pitched for Duluth, Minn. in the Northern League, limited the Army Chemical Center to four scattered singles and fanned 10 batters as Ft. Lee continued its climb in the losers' bracket with its afternoon triumph. The Travellers now have a 2-1 record in the six-day tournament.

Righthander Al Hauser came on in the ninth inning to halt a Ft. Detrick rally and preserve the Aberdeen Proving Ground's victory in the morning game. Ft. Detrick had runners on second and third with one out when Hauser was summoned to the relief of starter Chris Mallo, who had yielded only three hits. A wild pitch allowed one run to chase home but Hauser then retired the next two batters without further damage.

Giants To Sign Pact

NEW YORK, Sept. 5 (AP) — The New York Giants will receive $2,000,000 to have their home games in San Francisco televised over the pay network of the Skiatron Co. next year, sports editor Max Kase reported in the New York Journal American today.

Kase said the signing will be announced next week, and will be accompanied by a down payment of $1,000,000, with the final payment to be made in December.

Roy Face Stops Giants In 9th, Buccos Win, 4-2

Whammy Douglas Scores 3rd Win

PITTSBURGH, Sept. 5 (AP)—Roy Face came out of the bullpen with two men out and two on in the ninth to retire Valmy Thomas on an outfield fly and nail down a 4-2 victory for the Pittsburgh Pirates over the New York Giants tonight.

The victory went to Whammy Douglas, 23-year-old rookie righthander who was trying to go the full nine innings for the first time of his major league career. He got credit for his third victory in five decisions.

Douglas allowed 10 hits but escaped unscathed until the eighth when the Giants scored twice. Douglas took a 4-2 lead into the ninth and gave up a leadoff single to Willie Mays. He got the next two men but after walking Whitey Lockman went to the showers in favor of Face.

The hit by Mays, who is battling the St. Louis Cards' Stan Musial for the league batting championship, was his only safety in five trips.

Al Worthington, first of five Giant pitchers, was charged with his 10th loss against eight victories. The Pirates got eight hits, including triples by Bill Virdon, Harding Peterson and Bill Mazeroski.

Only 5,189 fans—smallest night game crowd of the season here—watched the Pirates get two runs in the third and two more in the fifth. The third-inning runs came on a single by Bob Clemente, Virdon's triple and Dick Groat's single.

Fishing Conditions Are Reported Poor

CHARLESTON, W. Va., Sept. 5 (AP)—The Conservation Department today predicted poor fishing conditions for the weekend in the state with the exception of Bluestone Dam where the water was normal and clear.

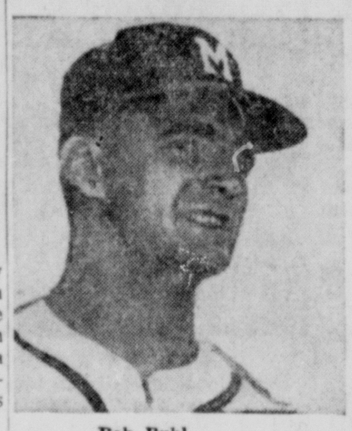

Elsewhere throughout the state, streams were reported to be either low and clear or almost dry. Lack of rain has dried up hundreds of feeder streams.

A department spokesman recommended fishing either at night or at daybreak for best results in view of the low water conditions.

IT'S NOT EASY to win 20 games a season in the majors but these flingers have that chance as the last month of play begins. Topping the cast is Billy Pierce, the White Sox southpaw, who won 20 last year, and Warren Spahn, the Braves' southpaw, who also copped 20 in 1956. Several others have long-shot chances to make the grade in the last four weeks of the season.

St. Louis Jolts Milwaukee's Braves, 10-1

Jones Cops 11th, National Leaders Get Only 4 Hits

ST. LOUIS, Sept. 5 (AP) — St. Louis, still thinking about a pennant, cut the first place Milwaukee Braves' lead to 6½ games tonight with a 10-1 triumph. Sad Sam Jones hurled a thrifty fourhitter as Lew Burdette disappointed once again for the Braves.

The victory tonight produced a sweep of the two-game series between the Braves and the second place Cardinals.

The Braves hadn't lost two straight since the Cardinals swept an Aug. 18 doubleheader from them to cut their lead at that time to 6½ games. The Braves have triumphed 10 times in 15 games since then.

Jones picked up his 11th victory in 19 decisions. He fanned six and walked two.

Starter Burdette, now 14-8, was pounded from the mound in the fifth inning as the Cardinals cashed three runs. It was the fourth time in a row Burdette failed to finish.

Irv Noren opened the fifth with a single and stopped at second as Del Ennis singled.

The one-base barrage against Burdette continued as Eddie Kasko and Don Blasingame produced hits, Blasingame's scoring Jones who reached base on a fielder's choice. Taylor Phillips relieved and stopped it.

Al Dark's throwing error, Frank Torre's single and Ed Mathews' double gave the losers an unearned run in the sixth and made the score, 3-1.

Juan Pizarro was the third Braves pitcher at the bottom of the sixth and St. Louis wasted no time scoring.

With one out, Noren cracked his third straight single and jogged home as Ennis unfurled his 19th home run into the left center field bleachers for a 5-1 margin.

SPORTS SPUTTERINGS

By Walter L. Johns, Central Press Sports Editor

BEHIND the success of star performers in sport stands the figure of a trainer or coach who receive relatively little attention.

Willie Molter, horse trainer, is one of these unsung heroes although he is recognized far and wide in the thoroughbred field for his accomplishments.

He operates one of the largest public stables in racing and he has something like 40 horses, owned by 10 different individuals, in his charge.

How successful he has been is verified by the facts which are that in 12 years of training horses, Molter led the nation in winners four times and twice topped the list in money won.

LIKE MANY other trainers, Molter, who is a native of Fredericksburg, Tex., started in the sport by riding horses at state fairs. He went west, to the coast, and rode at the old Tijuana course. He became associated with the late Jack P. Atkin, owner of a big stable and Atkin persuaded Willie to give up riding and take up training.

He campaigned part of the Atkin string in Canada and later he succeeded Atkin's head trainer and held that position until Atkin died.

Next Willie purchased some of Atkin's horses and raced them. He was associated with another man in ownership and when his partner died he began his career with a public stable.

MOLTER'S working agreements with his many owners is unique in public stable operation. He doesn't accept a flat per diem expense fee for every horse plus a percentage of stakes wins. He is paid a straight 10 per cent of all money won.

Round Table, winner of the American Derby at Washington Park, now has won 10 out of 16 races this year and seven straight. His earnings are near the $500,000 mark.

Round Table ran third to Iron Liege in the Kentucky Derby but

Mayne Loses To Davidson In Four Sets

Australian, Swede Go To Semi-Finals; Louise Brough Wins

By WILL GRIMSLEY

FOREST HILLS, N.Y., Sept. 5 (AP)—Young Ashley Cooper of Australia threw a dark shroud over America's Davis Cup hopes today when he crushed Budge Patty of Los Angeles in the quarter-finals of the National Tennis Championships 6-3, 6-3, 6-1.

Only yesterday Patty, 33-year-old circuit tourist who lives mostly in Paris, had been named as a likely chief cog in the U.S. Davis Cup team to be sent to Australia in December.

Patty's name may be erased in the official selection committee meeting tomorrow on the basis of Patty's drab, hopeless performance.

The Californian played laboriously as if every shot were a chore. He was mincemeat in the grinder of Cooper's slashing attack.

Toys With Patty

Near the end Cooper was toying with the former Wimbledon champion, passing him as he pleased and leaving him standing in the middle of the court gaping at routine shots.

The rout was so complete that Patty made only four points in the first five games of the final set before finally winning a single game on his service.

The triumph of the top-seeded Cooper, Australian champion and Wimbledon runnerup to Lew Hoad, came after Sven Davidson of Sweden, seeded No. 3, had advanced to the semi-finals on a comeback victory over darkhorse Clifton Mayne, the soldier from Ft. Monmouth.

Davidson Advances

Erratic at first, the towering, smooth - stroking son of Stockholm won, 3-6, 6-3, 7-5, 6-4. His high-kicking service and sharp volleys controlled the issue during the last three sets.

Cooper next plays the winner of the match between Vic Seixas of Philadelphia and Herbie Flam of Beverly Hills, Calif., seeded fourth and eighth respectively. Davidson must face one of the tournament upsetters, Mal Anderson of Australia and Luis Ayala of Chile.

In the women's division today, Louise Brough of Beverly Hills, Calif., turned back Ann Haydon, 18-year-old British lefthander, 7-5, 6-1, while Mrs. Dorothy Knode of Forest Hills beat Lois Felix of Meriden, Conn., 6-2, 6-1.

Tomorrow Wimbledon champion Althea Gibson, the favorite, plays Australia's Mary Hatwon for the right to meet Mrs. Knode. Shirley Bloomer, England's Wightman Cup ace, faces Darlene Hard of Montebello, Calif., for the privilege of facing Miss Brough.

Sports Trail

By WHITNEY MARTIN

NEW YORK, Sept. 5 (AP) — Now that Ray Robinson, the manager, has consented to allow Ray Robinson, the fighter, to defend his middleweight championship against Carmen Basilio Sept. 23, a new problem has arisen.

Robinson, the fighter, is worrying about hitting someone who doesn't like him.

Not that he'd rather put the slug on his friends. It's just that he feels he will have an advantage should Basilio come into the ring brimming with hate, his eyes bedimmed by rage and his fists flailing without plan or reason.

Ray Deeply Grieved

We believe we detect the fine Irish hand of Tom Meany, the publicist at the Greenwood Lake camp, in the smoothly worded statement quoting Sugar Ray as being deeply grieved that the challenger has anything but the kindest thoughts toward him.

"I regret exceedingly," Robinson might be surprised to learn he said, "that Basilio has chosen publicly to proclaim his dislike for me. It is neither friendly nor godly. Dislike could lead to hate and hate to rage, which is not calculated to produce the best results in a competitive ring where a cool head is required."

It is quite sporting for Robinson to feel so concerned about the well being of his rival, whom he feels should be in control of his senses when he is knocked senseless. He just doesn't want the welterweight champion to be blinded by rage, and declares he doesn't want that kind of an advantage.

A weight advantage would be okay, and so would an advantage in height, reach, skill and punching power. But to have his opponent mentally disturbed, no-no.

We aren't saying that Robinson won't fight unless he has a physical advantage over his rival. After all, he won the middleweight title while a welterweight, and spotted Joey Maxim plenty of pounds when fighting for the light heavyweight championship. So he knows what it is to be the little man in there.

He's undoubtedly right about an angry fighter being at a disadvantage when facing a cool, methodical opponent. But with his title at stake it is a little unusual, to say the least, to want his opponent to be cool, calm and collected.

Still In A Fog

We're still in a fog as to the probable winner of the fight at Yankee Stadium. We rather leaned toward Robinson, feeling that nobody could spot him weight and height and reach and beat him.

But since he became all involved in the TV arrangements and neglected his training we aren't so sure. Maybe he feels he doesn't have to train for this one. If so, he's making a bigger mistake than Basili would make in being angry. Overconfidence can be ruinous.

Terps Lose Services Of Jack Healy

Injured Co-Captain Gives Up Football

COLLEGE PARK, Md., Sept. 5 (AP)—Halfback Jack Healy, co-captain of the Maryland football team, quit football today.

Healy injured the knee against Wake Forest in the Terps' second game last year. He didn't play much until the eighth game against Clemson when he reinjured the knee.

He was operated on the following week for torn ligaments. He regained full use of the knee, but after two examinations this week, Dr. Thurston Adams recommended that Healy give up football.

"Jack's loss is a very serious blow to the team," Coach Tommy Mont said. "We had been counting on Jack not only for his playing but also for his excellent leadership."

Outdoor Club Beats Elks In 3rd Game, 12-6

Ted Durbin Clouts Grand Slam Homer

Exploding for six runs in the fourth inning and five tallies in the sixth, the Outdoor Club trounced the B.P.O. Elks yesterday at Stitcher Field by the score of 12-6 and took a 2-1 lead in the best-of-five games playoff series in the Rocking Chair Softball League.

The Elks played the game under protest from the 4th inning, claiming a batted ball struck a base-runner, whom they argued should have been called out. The umpires ruled the runner safe. The Outdoor Club contended the ball struck the runner after it bounded out of a fielder's glove.

Ted Durbin struck the big blow for Outdoor in the fourth inning when he came through with a grand slam homer. He also helped himself to three singles and batted in a total of six runs.

"Bub" Porter collected a double and two singles, Mil Dean connected for a two-bagger and single and George Evans had a pair of bingles to his credit.

In notching his 12th win of the season in 13 outings, Glenn Kauffman limited the Elks to five hits—a double by Johnny Cox and singles by Bill Underdonk, "Pooch" Orndorff, Raupach and Keyser. Kauffman whiffed six and walked two.

Trailing 12-1 going into the final frame, the Elks came up with five runs by coupling three hits with three errors for five runs.

Outdoor won the series opener, 4-1, and the Elks copped the second contest, 14-6.

Steelers Pick Up Trio Of Veterans

OLEAN, N. Y., Sept. 5 (AP)—Buddy Parker, new coach of the National Football League's Pittsburgh Steelers, picked up three veteran backfield players today from as many NFL clubs.

The trio is made up of fullback Bill Bowman of the San Francisco 49'ers, halfback Ted Wegert of the Philadelphia Eagles, and fullback Dick Young of the Baltimore Colts.

Bowman was a pro freshman sensation under Parker at Detroit in 1954. He spent 1955 in military service, returning last year but being used infrequently. In the off-season he was traded to the 49'ers.

Art Fowler Says Release By Redlegs Is "Disgrace"

Pitcher Declares He's Better Than Others On Staff

CINCINNATI, Sept. 5 (AP)—Pitcher Art Fowler says he has been "disgraced" by being released by the Cincinnati Redlegs and intends to quit baseball.

Fowler, 34-year-old righthander, was released yesterday by the Redlegs to Seattle of the Pacific Coast League after being waived out of the National League.

"Being waived off the Cincinnati pitching staff was the worst disgrace I have suffered in my baseball career," Fowler told newsmen. "You know how bad the team's pitching staff is and I know that I am better than some still on it.

"If I can't make the Reds' pitching staff then I'd better quit baseball."

Fowler said he planned to go to his home in Spartanburg, S.C., and enter private business.

Fowler had a 3-0 record this year and was used mostly in relief.

Bob Grim's 3-Run Homer In 9th Whips Bosox, 5-2

Relief Ace's Wallop Wins For Yankees

First Hit Of Year With Two Aboard Defeats Nixon

NEW YORK, Sept. 5 (AP) — Relief pitcher Bob Grim, hitless all year came through today with a dramatic ninth inning home run, with two out and two mates aboard, giving the New York Yankees a 5-2 victory over the Boston Red Sox.

Grim's game - winning clout, a sliced drive that sailed over the back - pedaling Jackie Jensen's head, barely reached the right field stands. It climaxed a Yankee comeback struggle and increased their first place margin over the idle Chicago White Sox to 5½ games.

Blow Saves Berra

The blow also saved Yogi Berra, Grim's battery-mate, from being the "goat" of the game. Berra had opened the ninth with a single and apparently had stolen second base, while Jerry Lumpe was at bat. The Yankee catcher, however overslid the base and was tagged out by shortstop Billy Klaus. Lumpe followed with a single that would have ended the game.

Boston pitcher Willard Nixon, who had dissipated a 2-0 Red Sox lead in the eighth when the Yankees tied the score on three walks and Gil McDougald's two - run single, then walked Enos Slaughter on a 3-2 pitch. Grim, who had replaced Bob Turley in the top of the ninth, was permitted to come to bat by Manager Casey Stengel although he had not made a hit in seven times at bat this season. Bob swung at the first pitch and was as surprised as most of the 15,613 spectators when the ball landed in the first row of seats near the Yankee bullpen.

It was a tough defeat for Nixon. A New York nemesis from way back, the 29-year-old righthander had throttled his Yankee "cousins" with four hits and no runs through seven innings and appeared on the way to his 42th triumph over the world champions in 19 lifetime decisions.

Jensen Hits Homer

BIG HIT FOR BOB—Pitcher Bob Grim, right, shows Mickey Mantle bat with which he clouted two-out, ninth-inning homer to give the New York Yankees a 5-2 victory over the Boston Red Sox yesterday in New York. Righthanded relief ace Grim, who replaced starter Bob Turley in the ninth, clouted first pitch into lower right field stands with two mates aboard. It was Bob's first hit of the season and only the second home run of his major league career. Grim received credit for his 12th win against six losses. (AP Photofax)

Redlegs Take 4-1 Decision From Chicago

Brooks Lawrence Posts 14th Win

CHICAGO, Sept. 5 (AP)—The Cincinnati Redlegs finished their 1957 labors in Wrigley Field today by taking a 4-1 decision from the Chicago Cubs as Brooks Lawrence fashioned a seven-hit performance into his 14th victory.

The fifth place Redlegs thereby claimed a 2-1 advantage for the series and a 6-5 bulge for the season over Chicago here.

Cincinnati pushed over two runs in the second on successive singles by Wally Post and Ed Bailey, a double steal, and Don Hoak's two bagger. Hoak was picked off second just before Roy McMillan tripled.

There were two out in the third when Frank Robinson got to Dick Drott, the eventual loser of his 11th decision, for his 24th homer.

Drott, the Cubs' leading pitcher with 12 victories, was lifted for a pinch batter in the seventh. Truk Lown, making his 59th appearance, pitched the last two innings and yielded the winner's last run in the ninth.

Mt. Savage Is Scene Zihlman, Barrelville Playoff Saturday

Zihlman and Barrelville will clash Saturday at 2:30 p.m., at Mt. Savage to determine the second and third place teams for the Pen-Mar Baseball League playoffs.

It was stated yesterday morning that the game will be played Friday but that is incorrect.

Barrelville and Zihlman wound up the season tied for second place with 21-7 records.

The Old Exports, managed by "Buck" Fiorita, and Zihlman, piloted by "Buck" Winfield, have split even during the regular season. Barrelville has won by scores of 6-2 and 5-0 while Zihlman copped 5-1 and 7-0 decisions.

Saxton Fights Miceli Tonight

Ten Round Scrap Set For Capital

WASHINGTON, Sept. 5 (AP)—Ex-welterweight champ Johnny Saxton, seeking lost glory, returns to battle tomorrow night against Joe Miceli of New York in a 10-round scrap at Capitol Arena.

Saxton, twice ruler of the 147-pound division, will be making his first appearance since current king Carmen Basilio belted him out in two rounds last Feb. 2.

The fight will be carried over the customary Friday night TV-radio network (NBC, 9 p.m. EST).

Basilio's opportunity to snatch the middleweight crown and leave the welter throne vacant hastened Saxton's comeback attempt. Carmen faces Ray Robinson in a middleweight title bout on Sept. 23.

Saxton's 6½ months on the shelf have deposited him among the forgotten men on Ring magazine's list of welter contenders and the former head man rates only fifth in National Boxing Assn. (NBA) rankings.

Miceli doesn't figure on either list, and he'll be the underdog in view of two defeats by the hit-and-skip Saxton several years ago.

Meet Ends Saturday

CHARLES TOWN, W. Va. — Sixty-one days of continuous racing at the Charles Town Turf Club's six-furlong plant comes to an end Saturday, Sept. 7 with the running of the $4000 Jefferson Handicap, at seven furlongs.

GREAT IN RHODESIA

NEW YORK — (NEA) — Jimmy Martinez, Phoenix, Ariz., middle-weight, is tough to beat in South Africa. He's won four out of five there, boxing in Johannesburg and North Rhodesia.

Larsen Says He Is Lucky To Be Alive

Injury Puts End To Tennis Career

FOREST HILLS, N.Y., Sept. 5 (AP)—On the night of Nov. 10 last year, Art Larsen, a happy-go-lucky tennis player from San Leandro, Calif., left a friend's home and boarded his little motor scooter.

That's all he remembers. More than three weeks later the 32 year old athlete woke up in a hospital, gravely injured. He had been in an accident.

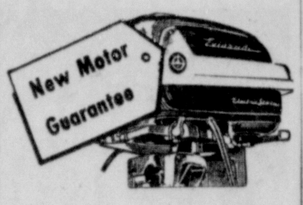

Larsen, who won the national championship in 1950 and still is ranked No. 8 in the country, is strictly a spectator at this year's national championships.

"And," he said today, "the doctors say I'm going to be a spectator forever. I was told on the West Coast that I never would regain the sight of my left eye and only the other day, a doctor here told me the same thing."

Not only did Larsen come out of the accident with his eye permanently injured, but his right arm and right leg were all but paralyzed.

"I'm not complaining," he shrugged. "I've been told I'm lucky to be alive, and I guess I am. I've been regaining the use of my arm and leg slowly and the doctors think that it won't be too long before they'll be perfect again."

Russians In Built-Up Shoes Capture High Jump In Paris

Cop First, Second Ahead Of Ernie Shelton Of U.S.

By KEITH LAMPE

PARIS, Sept. 5 — (INS) — Russian high jumpers, wearing controversial specially built-up shoes, placed first and second ahead of the United States' Ernie Shelton today in the Paris University games.

World record holder Yuri Stepanov won the event with a leap of 2.12 meters (six feet, 11½ inches), and his teammate, Vassily Kachkarov, was second.

Stepanov tried to better his world record of 2.16 meters (seven feet, one inch) but failed three times with the bar at 2.17.

Shelton, who did not wear the "beartrap" shoe he tried out in practice Wednesday, leaped only 1.98 meters (six feet, 5½ inches).

After making his early jumps in ordinary shoes, Stepanov changed to his special shoe on his takeoff foot, as did Kachkarov. Shelton, who inspected the shoes, said they are built up slightly more than an inch above the ordinary leather sole with a three-quarter inch wool pad and a leather insole.

He said he felt the shoes helped the Russians but added that they are "first class" without such assistance. The lanky American said he hopes to borrow a pair of the Soviet shoes and try them out next week at a meet in Bucharest.

U. S. sprinter Ira Murchison and half-miler Lang Stanley won qualifying heats. Murchison took his 100-meter first round and quarter-final in 10.8 seconds, while Stanley loafed home third in the 800 meters in 1:54.5 to qualify for Saturday's finals.

Pastrano-Harris Bout Postponed

MIAMI BEACH, Fla., Sept. 5 (AP)—Promoter Chris Dundee said today the Willie Pastrano-Roy Harris fight, scheduled for next Tuesday night, has been postponed because of an injury to Harris' eye.

Dundee said Lou Viscusi, one of Harris' advisors, advised him that infection had set in.

Dundee said no date has been set for the match, which originally was scheduled for the Miami Beach Arena Aug. 20 but was postponed until Sept. 10 when Pastrano suffered an eye injury.

Chuck Stobbs Beats Moore In 3-0 Duel

Sievers Hits 35th In Washington Win

BALTIMORE, Sept. 5 (AP) — Roy Sievers' 35th home run and Chuck Stobbs' masterful three-hitter enabled the Washington Senators to defeat Baltimore 3-0 today before 3,090—the smallest Oriole home crowd of the season.

Stobbs outpitched Ray Moore in a game that was run off in an hour and 52 minutes.

The Washington lefthander, in gaining his eighth victory against 18 setbacks, had a one-hitter going until the ninth, when singles by George Kell and Bob Nieman, and an error by Bob Usher, put runners on first and third with two out. Pinchhitter Bob Boyd forced Nieman at second for the final out. Siever's homer, a 389-foot two-run blast in the third, gave Stobbs all the runs he needed. It also gave the Washington slugger the American League lead over New York's Mickey Mantle, who has 34.

The two runs batted in ran Sievers' RBI league leading total to 98.

Colts Trade Dick Young

Baltimore Will Get Pittsburgh Player

BALTIMORE, Sept. 4 (AP)—The Baltimore Colts announced today they had traded fullback Dick Young to the Pittsburgh Steelers for an undisclosed draft choice and had put rookie halfback Jerry Welch on waivers.

Young, former Chattanooga star, played two years behind No. 1 fullback Alan Ameche, top ground gainer for the Colts last year and in the National Football League two years ago.

Welch spent two years in the Army after leaving South Dakota State, where his 2,785 yards gained and 221 points scored set new school records.

Young's departure leaves Billy Pricer, rookie from Oklahoma, as Baltimore's reserve fullback.

Financier Offers Five Million For Brooklyn Dodgers

NEW YORK, Sept. 5 (AP) — Financier Louis E. Wolfson today offered $5,000,000 for the Brooklyn Dodgers with the intention of keeping the club in New York.

The offer was announced by Walter Troutman, associated with Wolfson in financial dealings. Walter O'Malley, president of the club, is in Wyoming on a hunting trip and could not be reached for comment.

O'Malley has said that unless he is able to obtain a modern baseball park he will move the club to another city, with Los Angeles the probable site.

Tri-County Fair Opens Sept. 11 At Petersburg

3-Day Program Is Announced

PETERSBURG — Officials of the Tri-County Fair announced that plans have been completed for the grand opening of the 37th annual event here from Wednesday to Saturday, September 11-14.

This year's fair will be newer in many respects than in years past. New types of exhibits will be shown, as well as a daily program in front of the grandstand. In addition to the usual roster of events, this year finds the program varied each day in order to bring as large a variety as possible to fair goers.

On opening day, in addition to the regular schedule of judging and other events, will be seen the Carrol Shaffner sheep dog act from the University of Pennsylvania. Featured also will be the Four Tones, Harrisonburg, Va., singing a varied repertoire of gospel and spiritual songs together with band concerts at each performance. Climaxing the first evening will be a display of fireworks in front of the grandstand.

Thursday will be Firemen's Day and will also feature a firemen's parade with a display of marching groups, bands and fire equipment preceding the evening performance. The sheep dog act will be repeated at both afternoon and evening performances, as well as the presentation on the second day of the Four Tones. As an added attraction Archie Royer's Western Revue will also appear on Thursday's program. The audience will see "King, the Wonder Horse," as he plunges through a hoop of fire; Little Willie and his "Funny Ford" and Piccolo Pete, one of America's outstanding trick mules.

Friday is "Poultry Day." The weekly poultry auction will be held in the livestock arena at the same time the afternoon horse show is presented in front of the grandstand. Both events will begin at 2 p. m. The evening performance will see the completion of the horse show and the band concert. The day's program will also feature events other than the auction.

Saturday is "Carnival Day." Tractor driving contests will be held for both young and old. At 1:15 p. m. the tournament will begin. This event is promoted by the Hardy County Tournament Association and a large number of knights from the area will be riding. The winners will crown the queen and maids before the grandstand at 8 Saturday evening.

The final event of the evening will be Dusty Shaver and his All Star Town and Country Revue.

Frostburg Views Water Shortage

Council Orders Check On Supply

FROSTBURG — Commissioner William Eberly reported Tuesday evening that water in the Piney River Dam is now down five feet below the spillway.

He stated that there is no immediate cause for alarm regarding the water situation. However, he feels the citizens of the community should be asked to conserve water now, rather than wait until the supply becomes dangerously low.

Eberly was asked by Mayor Joseph James to keep an accurate check on the water level at the dams. Should it continue to drop, or should the present dry weather continue, the public will be informed at once and the use of lawn sprinklers, car washers and other unnecessary uses of water will be curtailed until the situation improves.

It was noted that Ellsworth Filer, manager of the community swimming pool, has requested authority to keep the pool and picnic area open for several additional weeks due to the good weather. This authority was granted.

Assistant Chief of Police Ronald Kreider reported that old buildings which were ordered torn down several months ago are still standing. The city clerk was authorized to write the owners of these old buildings, notifying them that if the structures are not razed within 30 days immediate action will be taken by authorities.

Kreider was also ordered to pick up any pinball machines found to be operating without proper license tabs, and to arrest any bicycle riders seen on the streets without tags.

It was pointed out that two months have expired since the deadline for both bicycle tags and pinball licenses. Persons who have not yet secured such licenses are not entitled to any further extension of time, James said. Kreider was ordered to impound any machines found to be in violation of the ordinance.

Franklin Martens, commissioner of police, reported that his department is in need of a humane officer. He asked that anyone interested in the position, either as a full-time or parttime job, get in touch with the city clerk or himself.

Sealed bids for the purchase of a new police cruiser were opened and, after considerable discussion, it was decided to file these bids and ask for new bids on a regular model stock car to be used as a cruiser. It was felt that considerable money could be saved in this manner, as the models used for police work costs much more than regular model cars.

Martens reported that the Police Department is in immediate need of four winter-weight top coats. The city clerk was authorized to ask all local tailors to submit bids for furnishing such equipment.

Eberly stated that he has been approached by several citizens and corporations, inquiring if it will be permissible to secure city water for their use. Not wishing to make commitments in such cases as this without the action of the entire corporate body, he stated that he has asked interested parties to appear before the Mayor and Council and present their requirements in detail.

Area CAP Units To Stage Simulated Search Sunday

MOOREFIELD — More than 100 personnel from Moorefield, Martinsburg and Hancock, Md. squadrons of the Civil Air Patrol will participate in a simulated search and rescue mission Sunday, September 8 from the Moorefield Municipal Airport. William C. Goetz, commander of the Moorefield Composite Squadron, will be the officer in charge of the mission. Goetz stated that 10 aircraft would participate in the search and that 10 mobile units for ground search will be used.

The exercise will be the third and last of a series of simulated search and rescue missions by the three CAP squadrons in this area.

The exercise, based on plans used by the U. S. Air Force, of which the CAP is an auxiliary, consists of a systematic search of an area in which an aircraft is supposed to be downed. The wreckage of a simulated crashed aircraft is placed in some isolated spot unknown to the searchers. CAP squadrons then conduct exhaustive line searches from the air, then work from special grid maps of the area while ground parties work from cars, trucks and jeeps with first aid and other rescue equipment. Communications and procedures are tested and perfected so that actual searches can be conducted with a minimum of confusion.

The Moorefield CAP squadron is now equipped with one aircraft, a squad car, a panel truck and a pick-up truck. Other equipment includes a 50 watt transceiver radio which is in the nationwide CAP network, two mobileradios, tents, sleeping bags and rescue equipment. The local squadron also operates and mans the local Ground Observer Corps Post at Moorefield High School grounds.

Cadet Robert Mathias recently returned from a 17,000-mile tour of Canada as an exchange cadet representative for the US Air Force. Mathias was one of the group taken on a month's tour in Canadian and US planes.

The exercise scheduled for Sunday will start at 8 a. m. A briefing for the participants will be held at the airport Saturday night at 7 o'clock.

Mineral County Soil Bank Plan Is Outlined

All operators of farms in Mineral County, with a 1958 wheat allotment, have been advised of the 1958 payment rate per acre in the soil bank program, according to John S. Arnold, Keyser, chairman of the Mineral County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Committee.

He called attention in his letter to all farmers that they have until October 4 to agree to put their wheat acreage in the soil bank. Regulations provide that the 1958 soil bank must be established for each farm before a soil bank agreement can be executed. The soil bank, he explained, is determined by taking one half of the acres of basic crops on a farm during the calendar years of 1956 and 1957.

In Mineral County, the soil bank base includes all small grains and soybeans harvested for grain or hay, corn and commercial truck crops. Land in soil banks in 1957 counts the same as wheat grown.

Mr. Arnold requests that each farmer prepare all information pertaining to base crops before going to the county ASC office to sign for the soil bank program.

Under the 1958 program, each farmer will be permitted to grow base crops only to the extent of the difference between the soil bank base and the acres he puts in the soil bank.

Mr. Arnold pointed out that there is a restriction in the 1958 law which prohibits a farmer from increasing other basic crops when a portion of his farm is in the soil bank. This was done last year and defeats the purpose of the plan, he noted. Under the 1958 law, for example, if a farmer has a soil bank of ten acres and he puts an allotment on four acres, his permitted acreage of basic crops is then six acres.

Mr. Arnold added that the purpose of the soil bank is to reduce surpluses of basic farm commodities.

Adult Advisory Group Meets

FROSTBURG — The recently elected adult advisory board of Teentown held its first meeting Tuesday with George Pugh, president, presiding. Prior to this meeting, at the annual public meeting held last week, it was decided that due to the increasing number of boys and girls using Teen Town, that beginning the new year in September, membership cards would be issued to only the boys and girls from Frostburg and nearby vicinity. During the past few months the average attendance has been about 350 each night and accommodations for this increasing crowd are not available.

However, out of town boys and girls are still welcome to visit at Teentown as guest of any one who is a member, but in the future they will not be issued membership cards. New membership cards will be issued during the weekend. Beginning Sept. 13 and 14, dances will be held during the current school year on Fridays and Saturday nights.

Sponsors for the month of September are Mrs. Gurney Beeman and Mrs. Ruth Morgan. Parents who have children in Teen Town are urged to support it by offering their services at an occasional evening by chaperoning. They may call either of the sponsors for information.

Frostburg Man Appointed To Mine Bureau Position

FROSTBURG — Robert D. Ewing, 108 Wood Street, has been appointed fuel combustion adviser by Frank T. Powers, director of the Maryland Bureau of Mines, to fill the vacancy created by the resignation of Rodney W. Selders. He assumes his duties today.

Ewing has been connected with the mining industry all of his life, having worked for the following firms: Consolidation Coal Company in Maryland, Pennsylvania and Kentucky; Bird Coal Company and Bethlehem Mines Corporation in Pennsylvania; Potomac Big Vein Georges Creek Coal Company; Allegany Mines Corporation; Burnwell Coal Company; Georges Creek Coal Company; Atlantic Hill Corporation, and Beechwood Coal Company in this area. He also was employed by the U. S. Bureau of Mines as an explosives investigator and federal mine inspector.

Ewing holds the U. S. Bureau of Mines instructor's certificate in first aid and mine rescue, and has taught night mining classes for the Board of Education in Allegany and Garrett counties under the supervision of the Maryland Bureau of Mines.

A member of Frostburg Presbyterian Church, where he teaches the Men's Bible Class, Ewing is a former clerk of session and past president of the Presbyterian Men's Club. He also is affiliated with Mountain Lodge 99, AF and AM and, as a holder of a second grade stationary engineer's license, is a member of the Universal Craftsmen Council of Engineers, Cumberland.

Keeping Up With Hollywood

by Louella Parsons

HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 5—(INS)—At no point in his career has Fred Astaire been as hot as he is at this very moment. He's just back from Hong Kong where for the first time in his life he made a personal appearance with "Silk Stockings," the Cole Porter musical which stars him and Cyd Charisse.

Hot on the heels of Fred's return, Arthur Freed informed him that another big Cole Porter musical is being readied for the magic Astaire feet. The title is "Wonderland" and it's a cavalcade of Porter tunes.

Arthur, by the way, is in New York after returning from Paris where Location shots on "Gigi" were made for MGM. Fred also has a big, big hit in Paramount's "Funny Face."

Ingrid Bergman is denying that she has signed any contract to star in "To Thank A Fool" for MGM. But she doesn't deny she will star with Cary Grant in "Kind Sir," Norman Krasna's stage play.

Cary is forming a company with Stanley Donen and Krasna to produce "Kind Sir" in November in England. When I asked Cary about it, he said he had a cable from Ingrid saying how pleased she is that they are to work together again.

Stanley Donen is already in England scouting locations, while Krasna is writing the script of "Kind Sir" right here in Hollywood.

Martha Hyer, who was once accused of trying to look like Grace Kelly, doesn't have to try to look like anyone but herself these days. She has just signed a new five-year contract with Universal-International calling for a substantial raise, and Martha is really living it up.

Over the weekend she closed a deal for a new home on Sunset Plaza Drive, complete with swimming pool and luxuries of a movie star's home. At the same time U-I assigned her one of those fancy new dressing rooms on the lot and presented her with a solid gold key.

To say she is happy is the understatement of the week.

NBC is hoping that the new TV series "Club Oasis" which kicks off with Van Johnson Sept. 29 will become as famed on TV as the Stork Club, El Morocco, Mocambo, the Cocoanut Grove, Ciro's and other famed real nightclubs.

Producer Hal Stanley tells me the same set will be used every show so that the fans will get used to the atmosphere but separate shows will be built around each star. Following Van will be Kay Starr, Frank Sinatra, Jimmy Durante and Eddie Fisher. Lucky for the TV patrons, there will be no cover charge at this nightclub.

It's just 20 minutes from Monte Carlo to Nice, and Nancy Sinatra is the house guest of the Joseph Kennedys at Monte Carlo. Frankie is in Nice making "Kings Go Forth."

Debbie Reynolds, sick with intestinal flu, is bedded. She starts her movie at U-I on Sept. 26.

It was a wild and fascinating dance number that Steve Peck and Lita did at the Club Seville. Among the celebrities attending were the Gary Coopers, Norma Shearer and Marty Arrouge, Ann Miller and Hal Hayes, and the Jerry Walds, who seldom do any night clubbing.

Carol Channing made such a hit with the Las Vegans during her eight weeks at the Tropicana that she was presented with a key to the city by Mayor Baker, Philadelphia.

That's all today. See you tomorrow.

Real Hero In Nation's Capital Is The Tourist

By ARTHUR EDSON

WASHINGTON, Sept. 5 (AP)—The time has come to pay tribute to the real Washington hero.

He isn't the congressman, who has a nice, comfortable chair to sit in. Nor is he a cabinet officer, who rides around behind a chauffeur and doesn't have to worry about finding a place to park.

No, the real hero is the Washington sightseer, the tourists who flock to their capital by the millions, who stand patiently in line, sometimes for hours, to ride the elevator to the top of the Washington Monument, or to get a brief glimpse of the stately innards of the White House.

This year's tourist crop has been exceptionally good. July, for instance, is believed to have been the best month in sightseeing history, with more than 900,000 visitors to Washington.

If all goes well, the Washington Board of Trade reports contentedly, more than 6½ million persons will visit Washington this year, breaking last year's record by a perspiring million.

Curious thing about tourists.

To those of us who live here, and who see them each day with their inevitable cameras and offspring, they become a part of the landscape, attracting no more attention than the sycamores along Pennsylvania Avenue.

It's only occasionally that this impersonal mood is jarred. Such as when kinfolk come visiting, and, in showing them around, you become a tourist, too.

It was fun—at least at first. You pack your mother, your sister and her three lively boys, your wife and your own three lively girls into the old station wagon and set out happily.

The Unknown Soldier's tomb, where the guard marches stoically, even in the rain. The Jefferson Memorial. The Pan American Union.

The first jolt comes when you ask Jimmy, the second grader, if he would like to pass up the elevator and climb the Washington Monument.

"Yes," he says. And it turns out that by yes he means not only right now, but every day and presumably all day.

So it went. The Smithsonian. The National Zoological Park. Mount Vernon. The White House. The Capitol. The Ford Theatre. The house where Lincoln died.

And pretty soon, after a few days, you begin to notice that the bounce is gone, that Washington has a tremendous number of things worth looking at, and that now that you're one of them, it's no wonder so many tourists have a grim, determined look.

There's another side to the picture. No matter how many times you see them, the nation's shrines still offer something new. And anyone who can look at the Capitol at night from across the Potomac without getting a thrill deserves to be sentenced to a month's sightseeing with six eager youngsters.

And yet, you remember the woman at the Washington Monument, accompanied by a game husband, and two livewire boys, almost running in their eagerness to run up to the top of the monument.

One of the boys yelled back over his shoulder, "Hurry, mom, we're almost there." Mom didn't say anything for a time and when she did she said it soberly, "I'm afraid," she said, "that I've just about had it."

And you're sure that she and millions of other heroic sightseers will agree: Sightseeing is fun and instructive, but it's relaxing to get back to work.

Council Backs Malaya For U.N. Membership

Africa Defense Plan

LONDON, Sept. 5 (AP) — South Africa has placed before Britain far-reaching proposals for the air, land and sea defense of Africa against any Communist thrusts, Commonwealth officials reported today.

A conference between the defense chiefs of the two countries has recessed for 10 days in order to give the British Cabinet time to study the proposals.

U.N. Policemen Now Operating Without Notice

By J. M. ROBERTS
AP News Analyst

One of the world's most important experiments, sensational when it began, has been rocking along for months now without stirring up much attention.

It is the first international army ever organized to enforce peace, the United Nations Emergency Force, which for nine moths has stood betwee Egypt and Israel.

It is a very thin line with something less than 6,000 men. It is a symbol, rather than a force, that could effectively oppose another attack in force by either side.

U. N. members have contributed to the cost on the basis of their over-all annual contributions to the U. N., and so far have appropriated $16,500,000.

The force's record in the Middle East is so good that Secretary General Hammarskjold is suggesting that the U. N. start studying the means of keeping such a group permanently available.

That would not mean, necessarily, a standing army, but it could. Or it could be a paper army, with plans all ready for immediate mobilization when needed. Hammarskjold makes no detailed suggestion—he merely asks for a study.

The UNEF now operates on a very tenuous basis. It is positioned by the sufferance of the disputants. That sufferance was obtained through the pressure of public opinion as represented in the General Assembly.

It might not be possible to interpose such a force between larger powers, or in the case of an aggression deliberately begun for the purpose of taking territory.

Its very availability would, however, confront any disputant with the necessity to accept or else be tagged a flouter of world opinion.

Russia accepted such a tag last fall rather than admit a U. N. inspection team into Hungary. Since then she has been having troubles with her Communist apparatus throughout the world. It is not a tag to be accepted lightly.

When the United Nations was organized it was thought that the great powers would eventually make peace and hand it to the U. N. to keep, with the aid of an international police force. Since no peace has been made, no permanent police force is possible in the sense that it would impose the U. N. will by force.

Opening lead: jack of clubs.

Declarer, in an effort to make his six diamond contract today, carefully stripped out his hand and dummy's preparing for an end play on West. When East foiled this attempt at the last moment, declarer had to find another way to land the slam.

South opened with one diamond and North, holding 13 points in support of the suit, had just enough to make the game-forcing bid of three diamonds. South, having a rebid valuation of 20 points, knew his side had the required 33 points and decided to check for aces. When North showed two, South asked for kings, with the intention of bidding a grand slam is his partner had two. When North bid six diamonds, South decided to quit.

West opened the jack of clubs, which declarer won with the king. Trumps were drawn, followed by three more rounds of clubs, a ruff in each hand clearing up the black suits entirely. It was declarer's intention now to play a low heart from dummy and insert the seven should East play low, second hand, to the trick. This would assure fulfilment of the contract, for, regardless of the card with which West won the trick, he could not "get out" without giving declarer a trick.

However, when the low heart was led from dummy, East played the jack. Unable to force the lead cheaply into the West hand, declarer was about to finesse the queen, when he realized that nothing was to be gained by covering the jack. If East held the king of hearts there was no need to hurry with the finesse, for he would have the king one round later. Declarer therefore permitted East to hold the trick, intending to finesse the next round. This produced an unexpected result, for East was unable to continue the suit and declarer was permitted to discard his losing heart on East's next lead.

Market Volume Remains Low; Prices Give Ground

NEW YORK, Sept. 5 (AP) — Extreme caution continued to prevail on the stock market today as turnover stayed near the lows of the year and prices gave ground moderately.

The major steels managed to come out a bit ahead for the most part. There were small gains for some motors, oils, radio-televisions, utilities and selected issues. But the tone of aircrafts, rubbers, nonferrous metals and chemicals was mostly lower. Meanwhile, leading rails declined, setting a new 1957 low on average for this group.

Volume was only 1,420,000 shares, far below average for the year, but an improvement over yesterday's 1,260,000 shares which was the smallest since October 1956.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks declined 90 cents to $173.80 with the industrials down $1.40, the rails down 90 cents and the utilities down 30 cents.

Of the 15 most active stocks, 7 declined, 6 advanced and 2 were unchanged.

Servel Inc. was the most active stock, up ⅞ at 5 on 39,200 shares. Second was Chemway, up 1 at 10 on 29,800 shares. Third was Royal Dutch, off 1 at 54⅞ on 19,800 shares.

Next came American Motors, up ⅜ at 7½, followed by Standard Oil (NJ), off ⅝ at 62⅜s.

Losers included General Tire ¾, Goodrich 1¾, Douglas Aircraft ½, Kennecott 1⅛, Allied Chemical 1¾, Du Pont 1¼, Chesapeake & Ohio ¾, Santa Fe ¼, Texas Co. 1 and Paramount ⅝.

As You Like It

By GOODMAN ACE

As IS my wont, as soon as the regular TV season ends and the summer re-runs of familiar shows begin, I become preoccupied with the telecast of the local baseball games. Of course as far as the Yankees are concerned these telecasts also seem to be re-runs, with the same cast and the same old resolution of its story line for the Yankee champions.

"The Best of Casey Stengel," as this series has become known, has as many as two sponsors per game, one of whom states the unequivocal proposition that Winston tastes good, like a cigaret should. As any TV baseball addict well knows, this is repeated in song as well as in hard sell prose as many as fifteen to twenty times during sponsorship of half of each game. And it seems this season as if more Yankee games are running into as many as two or three extra innings, during which time, as is the custom, the commercial which appeared as sponsor of the first half now comes on as sponsor of the extra innings. And as often as not that sponsor is Winston cigarets, which by now we have been brainwashed into believing tastes good, like a cigaret should.

I have no quarrel with the sponsor's basic claim that Winston tastes good, like a cigaret should. As Winston is only a cigaret it can never, try as hard as it will, taste like sponge cake, or as exotic as a dozen snails, or even like a pipe.

But after a summer of hearing as many as some hundred odd Yankee radio and TV broadcasts, I have developed an acute case of conjunctivitis. At the rate of as many as fifteen to twenty sponsor identifications per game that comes to as many as 1,500 to 2,000 times the summer air has been split with the pronouncement that Winston tastes good, like a cigaret should. Never a variation — not once: "Winston tastes as a cigaret should—good." Or simply: "Winston tastes like a good cigaret." Or perhaps more truthfully: "Winston tastes like a cigaret." Period.

Between shortstop Phil Rizzuto and nonstop Mell Allen I am more than pleased with the coverage of the game itself. They come off good—as a couple of baseball experts should. I don't even mind darling little Phil's: "The ball bounced into the seats which allows the runner to automatically go to second base." But when he gleefully, and in that crazy rhythm, beats out: "Winston tastes good . . . like a cigaret should," as quickly as I can I light up a Camel. And I'm a cigar smoker.

This is not my first crusade against irritant advertising. Some years ago as I used to come across the Manhattan Bridge after an unsuccessful trek to some track I was always confronted by a huge billboard advertising a beer and apostrophically announcing: "Our Hand Has Never Lost It's Skill." It took some doing but the Michelangelo who did that one was finally called to task.

I ain't a purist but I hope the makers of Winston will contact me as soon as possible. There are as many as thirty or forty "as's" in this piece which I will lease and or lend to them as a starter and for free. I hope they take advantage of the offer.

Like as not they won't.

Blazing Grass Keeps Area Fire Fighters Busy

South End Company Makes Four Runs

Fire fighters of the Cumberland area yesterday continued their battle against the series of grass and brush fires which become more dangerous each day the drought continues its grip upon Western Maryland.

South Cumberland Fire Company yesterday bore the brunt of the back-breaking work as it made four runs to beat out grass fires.

The South End firemen made their first run at 8:15 a. m. to Fisher's Woods. They spent almost three hours on the site, beating and wetting down the flames.

They were called to the B&O Rolling Mill area shortly after 11 a. m. and spent almost an hour bringing a grass fire under control.

The same company rolled again at 1:28 p. m. and within a few minutes beat down a grass fire in the rear of 513 Oldtown Road.

Two Units Called

They made the fourth run to an area at the rear of Jane Frazier Village and spent over an hour bringing that blaze under control.

Central Fire Company also rolled on the last fire, and spent about half an hour fighting the fire in the Blackiston Avenue section.

West Side Fire Company joined the grass fire fight at 2:10 p. m. when it was called to the Lafayette Avenue section. Firemen were kept busy for over an hour.

LaVale Volunteer Fire Company was called to the Allegany Instrument Company on Wills Mountain yesterday at 3:15 p. m.

Fire Chief Bruce Long said the grass fire there was brought under control in a few minutes.

Plant personnel, he said, called for aid after trash being burned near the plant got out of control.

Dist. 16 On Job

At least three area grass and woods fires broke out during the past two days, according to William H. Johnson, district forester.

Yesterday about an acre of land was scorched in the Spring Gap area and was brought under control by volunteer firemen of District 16.

Mopping up work was completed by forestry personnel and boys from the Green Ridge Forestry Camp.

On Wednesday about an acre of land burned in the Barrelville area, and the cause was attributed to a careless smoker.

Mr. Johnson said the Green Ridge fire was brought under control by members of the forestry camp under the supervision of forestry personnel.

Grass in an orchard burned in the Big Pool area on Wednesday. Mr. Johnson is urging extreme care and caution in the prevention of forest fires as the danger of such fires is mounting each day.

Soroptimists Planning Sixth Annual Benefit

The sixth annual benefit semi-formal dance sponsored by the Cumberland Soroptimist Club will be held Friday, October 11, from 9 p.m. to 1 a.m. at Ali Ghan Shrine Club, according to a decision reached by a committee meeting this week.

Mrs. Blanche Ridgeway, club president, has appointed Mrs. Faye Stillwagon and Mrs. Maxine Doak as chairmen of arrangements.

The theme of this social event will be "Indian Summer" with music by Happy Laughner's Orchestra of Youngstown, Pa.

The last benefit dance, "Oriental Ball," sponsored by the club was a complete sellout two weeks before the dance date. Popularity of the annual festivity has caused the committee to begin plans for an extensive advance sale of patron tickets.

There will be no admissions available at the door the night of the dance, Mrs. Ridgeway said, but reservations may be made with any member of the club.

Local, Area Men Taking Fire Course

Some 14 Allegany and Garrett county men are among those attending the 24th annual Short Course for Firemen which winds up today at the University of Maryland.

The four-day course sponsored by the Fire Service Extension of the University under direction of Robert C. Byrus, is being attended by volunteer firemen, paid firemen and fire personnel of industry in Maryland as well as firemen from a number of states along the Eastern seaboard.

Three hundred men registered for the course and received intensive training in all phases of firefighting with the use of the latest type equipment.

One of the instructors at the course is Cromwell Zembower of the LaVale Fire Department. Other volunteers include Harry Devlin and Richard Hawkins of the Midland Fire Company, Ralph Deligetti, LaVale, Joseph Durst and Paul Nichols, Frostburg.

Clyde Bantz, Glenn Boyd, Dewey Wilcox and Manuel Brolo, Luke, and George Comp and William Clatterbuck of Deer Park. Two Celanese employes in fire fighting work who are attending the course are James Condon and Virgil Eckles.

Traffic Lights 'On Automatic'

The traffic lights on Baltimore Street now are running automatically and will do so for a week.

The experiment is being carried on to expedite traffic along the "main stem," according to Police and Fire Commissioner William V. Keegan, who said it will allow a police officer to work traffic where his services are deemed more necessary.

Friendsville Safecracking Trial Today

$37,510 Taken From Store

Two Baltimore men who have been lodged in Garrett County Jail in connection with the safecracking at a hardware store in Friendsville on July 29 will be tried this morning before Associate Judge Neil Fraley at the Court House in Oakland.

Elwood Kissner, 26, formerly of Friendsville, and Oliver Rockett, 53, were charged with grand larceny and breaking and entering. They were arrested by Baltimore police on a "tip from a reliable source."

A third person involved in the safecracking, according to authorities, has not been apprehended.

A total of $37,510, including $25,000 in non-negotiable savings bonds was removed from the safe of the F. G. Fox and Sons Hardware Store.

Baltimore authorities turned the two men over to State Police Cpl. Samuel Conrad of LaVale Barracks, who placed them in Garrett County Jail. About $4,400 in cash was recovered from a rockpile near Friendsville and another $1,900 was located at the Richmond, Va., home of relatives of one of the prisoners.

The third man involved is believed to have escaped with $6,000 to $7,000. Police said Rockett admitted that he had burned the $25,000 in bonds. On August 10, according to Conrad, Rockett admitted the bonds were torn in two and given to him. He put them in a sack and burned them in the backyard of his home in Baltimore.

City Makes Plea For Additional Airline Service

The need for improved service was presented by Thomas B. Finan, city attorney, and Thomas W. Morris, director of industrial relations for the Cumberland Chamber of Commerce.

Details of the plan were included in a joint exhibit presented by the City of Cumberland and the Chamber of Commerce.

The hearing was held before Baron Frederick, CAB examiner, on proposed major readjustment of the routes in the Midwest and East of Allegheny Airlines.

Mr. Morris presented testimony as to the need for additional air service by Cumberland area industrial firms.

The exhibit filed for this Western Maryland industrial center points out that more convenient schedules would assure the airline serving the Queen City about 721 additional passengers a month.

The estimate, Mr. Morris said, is based on a survey of Cumberland area industrial leaders, who find that air travel helps in the pursuit of their business.

Other cities which were requested at the hearing yesterday were Hickory, N. C., Madison, Ind., and Norfolk, Va.

Stove Overheats And Sets Fire To Apartment

An overheated stove in a North Centre Street restaurant yesterday afternoon caused a blaze which damaged an apartment upstairs.

Central Fire Company said the flames from the paper and cardboard being burned overheated the chimney and set fire to a combination radio and record player in the apartment of Mrs. Bertha Wilson.

Fire Chief Virgil Parker said the fire had burned through the floor and was going down the joists before it could be quenched.

Walls and doors of the living room of the apartment were also blistered by the heat.

Chief Parker said firemen inspected the restaurant on Wednesday and ordered the proprietor to dispose of a big accumulation of paper and cardboard which was on hand.

Ridgeley Church Will Dedicate New Addition

Calvary Methodist Church, Ridgeley, will hold consecration services and formal opening of its new educational addition Sunday at 3 p. m.

Rev. Harold L. May, pastor, said the dedication service will climax over a year of planning and building of the new structure.

The sermon at the consecration service will be delivered by Rev. Dr. Paul Warner, district superintendent of the Methodist Church. Rep. Harley O. Staggers of the Second Congressional District of West Virginia, also will speak at the service.

The program will be followed by open house and refreshments will be served by members of WSCS of the church, assisted by Mrs. Harold L. May, Mrs. Eleanor Perry and Mrs. Daisy Nelson. Members of the board of trustees and their wives will serve as hosts and hostesses.

The building program for the new addition was set up at the quarterly conference of the church in July 1956, and included three major phases of planning.

The first phase consisted of remodeling the first floor of the present structure to provide a chapel, three large adult classrooms and a nursery. Also included in the remodeling were two rest rooms and a pastor's study. This phase was completed last December.

The other two phases were the financial campaign for the building funds and the actual construction of the new educational unit, which was completed a few days ago by J. F. Valentine and Sons.

The total building and improvement budget covers a three-year period and represents an investment of $47,057. The building committee is headed by Leon C. Hammond, James Perry and Rev. May.

How To Break Your Back

'Herman Hernia' Is Used To Curb Lifting Mishaps

"Herman Hernia" has been attached to the local office of the Corps of Engineers to help in a continuing campaign against lifting accidents.

Herman is a wooden working model of the human body, designed to illustrate the correct procedure to use in lifting heavy weights. He can also be made to show how a worker may strain or break his back by improper posture.

Rex E. Dexter, resident engineer, yesterday demonstrated the use of the model (above left) as Herman safely lifts the weight he has pulled toward him by lifting with his leg muscles.

He also manipulated the wooden model to show what happens to a worker's backbone if he leans forward and tries to lift a weight with his back muscles.

Hernias, Mr. Dexter said, are one of the constant sources of accidents on construction jobs.

One of the causes, he said, is improper position of the worker who attempts to lift a heavy object.

There are two recognized ways to prevent lifting accidents, he said.

The first is for the worker to learn the correct posture for lifting heavy weights. The second is to get help if an object looks too heavy.

It is important, he said, for the worker to make sure of a firm footing. Then, after the weight has been brought near the body, it can be lifted safely from a squatting position by using leg and hip muscles.

Many hernia cases, he said, have occurred when a worker fails to place his feet properly when he attempts to lift.

He said safety engineers report that most cases of hernia and rupture of muscles are caused by carelessness on the part of individuals.

40,156 Voters Are Registered In Allegany

The total number of registered voters in Allegany County as of September 1, is 40,156 which includes 22,653 Republicans and 17,183 Democrats.

Figures compiled at the office of the County Board of Election Supervisors show that there are 39,735 white voters and 421 Negro voters.

There are now 8,791 male Democrats and 8,392 female Democrats, while 11,429 males are registered as Republicans and 11,224 female Republicans.

Some 304 persons decline to indicate their party affiliation, including 218 males and 86 females. The number of Socialists registered is 14, which includes nine males and five females. "Other party" affiliation shows there are two, including one male and one female.

Some 22 new registrants were reported in the statistical data. They are all white voters, including eight Democrats and 14 Republicans.

Some 33 white persons' names were stricken from the books because of death. Nineteen of the total deceased were Republicans and 14 were Democrats.

Two male Republicans requested their names be removed from the books and change of party affiliations show three male Democrats switched to the Republican Party.

Fire Chief Says No-Burning Rule Will Continue

Fire Chief Virgil Parker said yesterday the city will give out no burning permits until soaking rains come to break the drought.

He said the Fire Department has been using its utility truck to patrol the city and make sure the "no burning" rule is kept.

Saying grass is so dry now that it "goes up like gasoline," Chief Parker appealed to everyone to refrain from any burning within the city limits.

He said any outside burning now is dangerous not only to those who attempt it but to all residents of the city.

Charge Filed In Shooting Of Area Boy

William James Weir, 54-year-old Garrett County man, is lodged in the county jail at Oakland on a charge of assault with intent to kill his 18-year-old son Allen G. Weir on Wednesday afternoon at their home.

The victim, who is a patient in Miners Hospital, Frostburg, is reported to be improving. Police said the boy was shot in the left chest just under the heart with a .32 calibre pistol.

Authorities said last night that a date has not been set for a preliminary hearing. Mr. Weir gave a statement yesterday afternoon in the sheriff's office at Oakland.

Present at the time were State's Attorney Stephen R. Pagenhardt, Cpl. Harry S. Bosley who made the investigation, Sheriff James E. Frantz and Deputy Sheriff Raymond Thomas.

The shooting, police said, stemmed from a family argument and occurred at the Weir farmhouse about half a mile across the Garrett County line above Lonaconing.

After the shooting the victim got into the family car and drove to the Lonaconing home of Cpl. Bosley, who called an ambulance to take the boy to the hospital.

In the meantime, the father is said to have called the LaVale State Police Barracks and confessed to the shooting, asking if he should turn himself in. The elder Weir was told to remain at his home, where he was picked up by Cpl. Bosley, who brought him to Allegany County Jail here on an open charge.

Yesterday morning he was taken to the county jail in Oakland.

Placement of the signs is a project of the Allegany-Garrett Counties Volunteer Firemen's Association with the cooperation of G. Bates Chaires, district engineer for the SRC.

Potomac River Committee Will Meet Monday

Kitzmiller Area To Be Studied

In an effort to do something about long talked-about flood control for the Kitzmiller-Shallmar area, and to make a study of immediate and future development of the Potomac River and its Maryland tributaries, the Potomac River Committee of the Maryland Legislative Council has scheduled a series of meetings.

Delegate Harry Edwards of Garrett County who was recently named a member of this committee said last night that a meeting has been scheduled for 10 a. m. Monday at the Kitzmiller Community Building. A second meeting has been scheduled for 3 p. m. in the Cumberland City Hall. On September 16, the committee will meet in Hagerstown.

At the Kitzmiller session on Monday, a tour will be made of the river to check flood control needs in Shallmar and Kitzmiller. The tour will be followed by a luncheon at noon and a discussion with town officials and interested citizens on the local problem. Then the group will leave for Cumberland to meet with officials here.

Cites Immediate Need

Delegate Edwards, who resides in Grantsville, told The News last night that a great deal of emphasis is being placed on "high dams and other river development" downstate, while this area, especially in the Kitzmiller section, has been flooded time and time again. He noted that many surveys have been made.

Pointing out that the headwaters of the Potomac River lie above Cumberland and Kitzmiller, and that Savage River is in Garrett County, Del. Edwards said it should be remembered that preservation of the water in the upper regions of the stream will benefit everyone all the way down to the bay.

During the present drought, he noted, especially during the month of August, 45.6 per cent of the flow of the Potomac River at Cumberland came from the Savage River reservoir. Additional dams on the Savage River or upstream on the Potomac itself, he declared, will conserve great quantities of water for use in drought periods, thus benefiting everyone all along the stream.

The purpose of these meetings, he explained, is to gather information and to help familiarize the members of the committee from all parts of the state with the problem.

To Seek U. S. Help

The state can then use its influence to get federal project or federal assistance on development projects under way, he said. He also suggested that there is very little doubt that West Virginia Congressmen, state legislators and citizens familiar with the problem will cooperate readily in a development plan.

Kitzmiller has been flooded so many times, he said, that it has become a tragic situation. "That is why we want to start there," he said. Mr. Edwards said a number of interested people have been invited to attend the Kitzmiller session. Invitations have been sent to representatives of the Western Maryland Railway Company, the West Virginia Pulp and Paper Company, Garrett County Commissioners, and other officials and interested citizens.

At Kitzmiller, where the Lions Club will be host at the luncheon, a civic committee has extended an invitation to all interested people to attend the conference and make the tour, and to participate in the discussion. The committee has also requested any persons who have photographs of past floods in the area to bring them to the meeting.

Del. Lester B. Reed of Allegany County also is a member of the Potomac River Committee.

Blood Donors Will Get Free Parking Monday

Police Chief R. Emmett Flynn said last night permission has been granted to the Allegany County Chapter Red Cross to utilize parking space on Frederick and Bedford streets alongside the Eagles' Building, for visits of the bloodmobile.

The bloodmobile unit will be here Monday and blood will be collected in the Eagles' Building from noon until 6 p. m. One of the problems in the past, said Mrs. George W. Legge, Red Cross executive secretary, has been parking space for donors. She said there were discussions with city officials and Chief Flynn has authorized the Red Cross to cover parking meters in the area during the blood collection hours.

Mrs. Legge said the Red Cross has prepared "cloth caps" showing the Red Cross emblem, which can be slipped over the parking meters. Donors can then park in these areas during the time they are giving blood.

The parking areas will not be open to people working in the blood collection center, but are designated solely for the use and convenience of those who are giving blood, Mrs. Legge noted.
